Chamber Honors John Stevenson

Past President John Stevenson, was presented with a plaque for his services at the annual meeting of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night.

Distinguished guests at the dinner meeting were State Representative Myrl Shoemaker and State Senator Harry Armstrong. All three of the Pickaway County Commissioners were present and some of the members of city council.

The program for the evening included invocation by the Rev. Melvin Maxwell, reflections on 1973 by John Stevenson and the year ahead by Dan Hindy. Ned Harden again performed the duties of emcee.

President-elect Dan Hindy briefed the Chamber members and guests on the plans and expectations of the coming year and asked all those present to try and keep one goal, "Make sure you leave this area a better community in which to live than it is now or it was when you came here."

Dr. Dean F. Berkley was chosen as guest speaker because of his popularity and ability to deliver a light and versatile talk on almost any subject. Berkley is a native of South Dakota but is presently on the faculty of Indiana University. He is a past teacher, coach and school administrator and related many warm and humorous experiences he has encountered during his career.

Dr. Berkley commented on the historical setting of Pickaway County and commended the Chamber of Commerce on its positive focus for the future in view of the negative attitude of the rest of the world. He talked briefly about the new farm bill and the energy crisis and warned to beware the word "crisis" because it implied a temporary situation.

The present situation brought Berkley around to discussing the plea of the younger generation for instant reform. He compared the philosophy of the young people to the digital clock. The clock gives the exact moment in time but does not show where the hands of time have been and more importantly does not show where the hands are going.

He continued with the expectations of the American people on the many problems of today. Each of these problems including the energy crisis demands a response "right now."

Berkley said he had just completed a study on a community very similar to Circleville. This community had made a plea for progress and he compared the future of it with the present day Circleville. The industries which have come to this area within the last 20 or 25 years were given credit for maintaining and improving the standards of living of the area residents.

He concluded with a recommendation for the future plans of the Chamber, advising them the word of action is "share the good news of this community." The strength of the community is in the sharing of the progress as well as the problems. He advised them to be careful not to promise something that simply cannot be done but to remember many of the things we take for granted were once considered impossible. In looking back to the way the world was yesterday, it is hard to believe how it is today.

The new brochure of the Circleville area was presented at the meeting. It includes brief history of the community, vital statistics, government and services offered, industries and a map of the town. The brochure was completed by the efforts of a committee headed by Jack Mader.

New committee chairmen were introduced. George Hamrick heads the Agri-business Committee; Myron Haradon, Area Development; Kenneth Fosnaugh, Budget and Finance; Ned Harden, City-County Planning; Don Brandon, Community Appearance; Larry Plum, Education; E. G. Grigg, Health; Bill Stout, Legislative; Wayne Miller, Membership; George Bingham, Office Facilities; Nelson Embrey, Public Relations; Keith Thomer, Retail Merchants; Cal Danford, Safety.

A report of the Budget and Finance Committee included the approved budget for 1974 which totaled $17,705.

Meal preparations and serving were completed for the annual meeting by members of Hedges Chapel. Commemorative water glasses were presented by each guest by the Owens-Illinois Company.

The floor fight centered about a provision that would have permitted the director to halt commercial vehicles, inspect them, and seize any products suspected of being illegally packaged or mislabeled.

Retained, however, was the authority for the director or his agents to enter private business establishments for the same type of inspections and seizures. The investigators could not enter without permission, however, unless armed with search warrants.

Named by Gillmor to the abortion subcommittee were Sens. Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria; Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, and Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus.

Among witnesses was Stanley Laughlin Jr., an attorney representing the Ohio Civil Liberties Union and legal counsel in a federal court case that held Ohio's old law to be invalid initially. The old statute permitted abortions only if the mother's health

Defense Costs Nearly $300,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has spent about $300,000 on President Nixon's Watergate defense but argues it is outspent and outnumbered by a growing investigative bureaucracy.

Apparently seeking to mute any criticism of government outlays to defend Nixon, a White House official made material available to support the argument that the President's lawyers are the underdogs.

The official reported that expenses of the White House legal group totaled $290,418 between last July 1 and Jan. 9. He said spending for the full 1974 fiscal year, ending June 30, probably would total about $600,000, perhaps more.

By contrast, he said the special prosecutor alone has a $2.8-million budget, the Senate Watergate committee $1.5 million and the House Judiciary Committee $1 million.

The official said Nixon's defense team consists of 14 fulltime attorneys, four part-time lawyer-consultants, and seven secretaries.

He said the Watergate prosecutor and the two congressional committees employ 60 attorneys, with 25 more authorized, plus 113 investigators, accountants, researchers, secretaries and other support personnel.

Boston attorney James D. St. Clair heads the Nixon team at a salary of $42,500 a year, the same as White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt and presidential assistant Leonard Garmet, who are trying to cut loose from Watergate chores but were listed by the White House source as members of the defense staff.

Cecil Emerson, a staff assistant to Nixon who is paid $32,031 a year, was cited as the only other defense attorney on the White House payroll.

Jaworski's salary is $38,000 a year. Among his assistants, Richard Benveniste is listed as earning $29,205 a year and Jill Vollner, $25,055.

'Stringbean' Suspects Arrested

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Four men have been arrested in the slaying of country music performer David "Stringbean" Akeman and his wife.

Police identified them Wednesday as John A. Brown Jr., 23, and Marvin D. Brown, 21, both of Nashville, each charged with two counts of murder, and Charles Brown, 32, and Roy Brown, 23, both of nearby Greenbrier, charged with accessory after the fact of murder and receiving and concealing stolen merchandise.

Police said John and Marvin are cousins and Charles and Roy are brothers of Marvin.

Akeman, 57, and his wife Estelle, 59, were found shot to death early Nov. 11 at their home north of Nashville. Police have theorized that they surprised burglars when they returned home after Akeman's appearance on the Grand Ole Opry, where he was a regular.

Police speculate the killers took an estimated $17,000 that Akeman, a banjo player, had in his possession only a few days prior to his death. However, the killers overlooked about $5,700 hidden on the bodies of the couple.

Floods, Slides Hit Northwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nine men were missing today after a rock and earth slide smothered a telephone company building in Oregon, and two children drowned in Northern California.

The men were working in a Pacific Northwest Bell Co. structure near Canyonville in southwestern Oregon Wednesday night when the landslide roared off a mountain, pushed the structure into a creek and then buried it in mud.

Authorities moved heavy equipment to the scene to dig for possible survivors, then abandoned the rescue attempt temporarily until geologists could gauge the danger of further slides.

The Oregon landslide came in the wake of heavy rains and an early snow melt that sent already swollen streams in many areas of the Pacific Northwest surging to new highs.

The storm left its soggy impact on western Montana, Idaho, northeastern Washington, Western Oregon and Northern California.

Dams broke and mudslides blocked highways. Hundreds of families were forced from their homes by floods.

At Myers Flat, on a branch of the Eel River in Northern California, 14-year-old Jimmy Moore and his 12-year-old sister, Kathy, died Wednesday when a dam created by a logjam burst and surging water swept them from the backyard of their home.

Sheriff's Lt. Robert Williams said the youngsters were helping their father, Emery, move property to higher ground when they were swept to their deaths.

Moore escaped. His wife was in the family home, which was torn loose by the swirling water. She escaped death when the house washed back to shore after being carried some 75 feet out into the raging stream.

Eight counties in Idaho were declared a disaster area.

The Idaho mining district of Coeur d'Alene was virtually isolated. Dams burst. Water blocked highways. At least 1,000 persons were evacuated from their homes.

Fifteen persons were reported trapped by high water on a bridge over the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene river in Idaho. A major bridge over the south fork of the Coeur d'Alene collapsed, isolating hundreds of persons.

In Western Oregon, hit by the worst flooding in 10 years, there was some relief from high water Wednesday as the rain slackened and rivers receded. At least 250 families had fled their homes.

Storm warnings were in effect on the Oregon coast for wind gusts up to 70 miles per hour. Wind speeds of 70 m.p.h. were clocked Wednesday at Livingston, Mont., and Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Amtrak, the national rail passenger service, announced it had canceled all service between Vancouver, B.C., and Oakland, Calif., because of the rains and high water. Amtrak's Seattle-Chicago service was suspended west of Laughlin said provisions in the House bill, which make physicians responsible for deciding when it is safe to perform an abortion, are "more repressive than the one declared unconstitutional in Ohio — your old abortion law."

James Polman, an attorney representing the Ohio State Medical Association, predicted few abortions would be performed in Ohio if the House bill were to become law. Penalties it would levy on doctors not following prescribed procedures would keep them from performing an abortion, Polman said.

In other action, the House Transportation Committee rereferred to the House Select Committee on Energy an administration bill permitting Ohio to comply with the new federal 55 mile per hour speed limit.

Rep. Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who heads the new energy panel, said hearings probably will Hundreds of persons were forced from their homes by high water in Northern California and dozens of roads, including scenic coastal highway U.S. 101, were closed by slides and flooding streams. Four bridges were reported washed out in Trinity County.

Authorities reported that 400 residents were evacuated from low-lying areas in Humboldt county, some 200 persons fled their homes at Pepperwood and another 150 were forced from their homes near Dunsmuir, north of Mt. Shasta on the Sacramento river.

More than four inches of rain pelted the Dunsmuir area in 24 hours.

The Southern Pacific reported that 1,500 feet of track was washed away near Dunsmuir. Two Amtrak trains carrying more than 300 passengers were held up at Redding, Calif., and Klamath Falls, Ore., because of flooded tracks.

At Ukiah, in Northern California's Mendocino county, water was hubcap deep in the streets.

Oil Industry Data Shows Decline In Import Flow

WASHINGTON (AP) — An oil industry group has released figures that appear to signal a tightening of the Arab oil embargo and a worsening of the gasoline shortage.

The American Petroleum Institute on Wednesday said imports decreased 12.2 per cent last week from the previous week. And the weekly report said U.S. gasoline stocks dropped by 3.6 million barrels.

But Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., said he agrees with some of his constituents who feel that the energy crisis is "a trumped-up crisis by the oil companies to make more money."

Conte spoke during a House subcommittee hearing Wednesday at which oil industry critics testified that the country "is not nearly in as bad a situation as the oil industry and the administration would have us believe."

Middle East oil specialist Christopher T. Rand presented the subcommittee with Petroleum Institute figures from December, which he said showed that the gasoline shortage could easily be made up from existing stocks. He said the figures also indicated that the oil companies were exaggerating the severity of the crisis in an effort to drive up prices. "They know a ten-cent increase in the cost of a gallon of gasoline will result in $4 billion in additional revenue," Rand said.

However, the latest API figures, released Wednesday, showed that oil imports dropped sharply last week. The drop wiped out a brief upturn in imports, which had been attributed to leakage of the Arab oil cutoff. According to the figures, imports averaged 4.9 million barrels per day during the week ending Jan. 11, a decrease of 677,000 barrels from the previous week.

And gasoline stocks dropped to a level usually reached only in mid-summer, the figures show.

The credibility of such data supplied by the petroleum industry was the subject of the hearings being held by the House subcommittee on regulatory agencies.

Washington lawyer Martin Lobel told the subcommittee Wednesday that the data provided by the oil companies is "unaudited and unverified" and that "when pressed for accurate data the companies refuse to provide it. They use every legal device available to keep accurate, relevant information from those in government who must make decisions," Lobel said.

Lobel's testimony was disputed by W. T. Slick, senior vice president of Exxon. He claimed that the major companies "have for many years provided to various governmental agencies substantial operating and financial data."

Slick also said that Exxon, the nation's largest oil company, would be willing to turn over estimates of its oil and gas reserves to the government but added that it objected to the publication of certain competitive information such as pricing.

Soybean Checkoff Program Rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio soybean growers have rejected a proposed domestic and foreign marketing program for their crop, state Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie said today.

Abercrombie said 2,297 voted for the program, while 2,158 were against it. He said 66 2-3 per cent of the production total, or 66 2-3 per cent of the producers, were required to approve the program.

He said the favorable vote represented 51.6 per cent of the total bushels produced in the state and 58.7 per cent of the growers.

The marketing program would have permitted a half-cent checkoff on all soybeans sold in Ohio. At least 60 per cent of the money would have been used to develop foreign markets. The remainder of the money would have been used for domestic market development and research.

"I don't think the half-cent would have bothered anybody," said Abercrombie. "Soybeans are at an equitable market price now. It may have been apathy."

Ohio has more than 55,000 soybean producers and only 4,455 voted, he said.

The agriculture director said the soybean referendum was the first such program to be defeated by Ohio farmers. They had previously approved programs for beef, turkeys, eggs and apples.

He said the proposal failed with the votes of Shelby County missing.

"Since 60 votes and 145,000 bushels were missing, it couldn't possibly change the vote one way or another," Abercrombie said.

Ohio soybean farmers cast their ballots during a three-day period last week and mailed their ballots to the state Agriculture Department.

State Solons Still Seek Abortion Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After almost a year of frustration, Ohio lawmakers still are searching for legal language that would permit the state to place reasonable controls on abortions.

The task was placed Wednesday in the hands of an Ohio Senate Judiciary Subcommittee which Chairman Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said should report back to the full committee in two or three weeks.

Gillmor named the subcommittee after hearing the last of testimony on a proposal passed last year by the House, and upon agreement by committee members that in its present form, it probably would not comply with the U.S. Supreme Court decision that invalidated Ohio's old anti-abortion law.

The committee action, along with introduction in both houses of Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's proposed new drug abuse bill, highlighted an otherwise routine day in the legislature.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained sharply higher today amid rising hopes that some agreement between Israel and Egypt was imminent.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks at noon was up 8.45 to 864.54. Advances topped declines on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 5 to 1.

Eugene Peroni, analyst with du Pont Walston, Inc., attributed the market's gains primarily to technical conditions which, he said, were "very much supported by optimistic and hopeful news coming out of the Mideast." He cited news reports that an agreement would be announced later today by Egypt, Israel, the Soviet Union, and the United States.

Rite Aid was volume leader on the NYSE, off 1/4 to 9 3/4 after a 386,500-share block at 8 1/2, down 1.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index at noon was up .73 to 95.41, while the NYSE index was up .59 to 51.77.

Costlier Labor Pacts Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A forecast of bigger contract settlements this year from the government's top wage controller may indicate a relaxation of the administration's pay guidelines.

"I would expect that the normal forces that operate on wages will result in higher settlements in 1974," said Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council.

In meeting with newsmen Wednesday, Dunlop gave no indication that the council would hold wages to the 5.6 per cent average increase of contracts last year.

He also said he opposes any move into a new Phase 5 wage-price control program after legal authority for the Economic Stabilization Program expires in April.

But he said he would not rule out the possibility of continued Phase 4-type controls should Congress extend authority beyond the present April 30 expiration date.

Dunlop said his recommendations are before the President, and that he and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz would present the administration's proposal to Congress Feb. 6 in testimony before a Senate Banking subcommittee.

In the meantime, he said the council is weighing a proposal to lift price controls from several industries, including food manufacturing. He said there is general agreement that when controls are lifted from the retail end of the food business, "we should do it in one fell swoop."

Wage-price controls have been in effect in various forms since August 1971 as part of the administration's effort to control inflation. But the inflation rate increased from 3.4 per cent in 1972 to nearly 9 per cent last year, with projections of more of the same this year.

Dunlop said he expected "continued, substantial increases" in wholesale prices through April and an appreciable jump in retail food prices that "will further aggravate the situation."

The pressure of rising prices, a tightening labor market and high industry profits will push wage settlements up more this year than at any time since the start of the controls program, he predicted.

A number of major contracts come up this year and labor leaders are expected to be more militant in their demands.

Dunlop expressed concern with bargaining early this year in the aluminum and can industries as well as in the reopening of the Teamsters contract.

He conceded that higher wages will bring new pressure for still further increases in prices.

David Pelletier To Demonstrate 'God's Miracle'

Local Christian Businessmen are sponsoring the appearance of eleven-year-old David Pelletier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pelletier, Black Mountain, N. C., 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the 4-H Grange Building.

Praised as "a miracle of sight", the young lad, in July 1968, was involved in a freakish accident losing his left eye.

After three years, in July, 1971, the lad claimed sight had been restored to his left eye, which then was a plastic eye. Upon examination, with the good eye completely covered, several eye surgeons and specialists have verified and certified this miracle. David is said to be able to see through his "spiritual eye".

The 11-year-old lad, known as "God's Miracle" will also be at the Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

Holmes County Notes 150th Anniversary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Holmes County will be 150 years old Jan. 20, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today.

Brown said the north central Ohio county was created by the legislature in 1824 and was named after an officer in the War of 1812.

Grand Jury Indictments Arraigned Wednesday

Seven people indicted by the January Grand Jury appeared in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Wednesday for arraignments. Representing the State of Ohio were Richard L. Gerhardt and James R. Kingsley of the county prosecutor's office.

William Herman Davis Jr., Route 3, Mt. Sterling, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to commit rape. The case was scheduled for hearing on March 21, at 9 a.m.

Two Columbus men, Gregory Fortney and James W. Weilder, pleaded not guilty to unlawfully obtaining a narcotic drug. These cases are scheduled for hearing on March 7, at 9 a.m.

Not guilty pleas were also entered by Steven B. Thompson. Thompson is charged with keeping a house for the sale of an hallucinogen and a second count, cultivating hallucinogens. Trial for these cases will be held March 28.

Paul K. Swickheimer, Bexley, asked the court to appoint an attorney for his defense on a charge of non-support.

Fearl Meade, Lockbourne, and Wayne Grabans, 1311 East St., asked the court for continuances to enable them to obtain legal counsel. Meade is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and Crabans faces a charge of grand larceny.

A plea of guilty was entered by Vicki Hill, Columbus, on a charge of insufficient funds. Judge William Ammer ordered a pre-sentence report to be made before sentencing.

Indicted by the second term of the September Grand Jury, Dean Davis, 5028 W. Second St., Ashville, entered a negotiated plea of guilty to a reduced charge of assault and battery. Davis had originally been charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and upon the recommendation of county prosecutor, the charge was reduced. The court ordered a pre-sentence report to be made.

A charge of breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling was reduced to breaking and entering an uninhabited dwelling against Willette Sue Frey, Columbus. Mrs. Frey was placed on probation for a period of five years. She had formerly entered a plea of guilty to the reduced charge.

Becky Sue Wilson, Route 1, Chillicothe, was placed on probation for three years. She had entered a plea of guilty to two counts of grand larceny at her arraignment.

Judge Ammer found Paul Downard guilty of violation of probation after he had been charged with three counts of conversion of trust in Circleville Municipal Court. Downard's probation was continued. He had originally been placed on probation for breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season.

Grand Jury Indictments Arraigned Wednesday

Seven people indicted by the January Grand Jury appeared in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Wednesday for arraignments. Representing the State of Ohio were Richard L. Gerhardt and James R. Kingsley of the county prosecutor's office.

William Herman Davis Jr., Route 3, Mt. Sterling, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to commit rape. The case was scheduled for hearing on March 21, at 9 a.m.

Two Columbus men, Gregory Fortney and James W. Weilder, pleaded not guilty to unlawfully obtaining a narcotic drug. These cases are scheduled for hearing on March 7, at 9 a.m.

Not guilty pleas were also entered by Steven B. Thompson. Thompson is charged with keeping a house for the sale of an hallucinogen and a second count, cultivating hallucinogens. Trial for these cases will be held March 28.

Paul K. Swickheimer, Bexley, asked the court to appoint an attorney for his defense on a charge of non-support.

Fearl Meade, Lockbourne, and Wayne Grabans, 1311 East St., asked the court for continuances to enable them to obtain legal counsel. Meade is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and Crabans faces a charge of grand larceny.

A plea of guilty was entered by Vicki Hill, Columbus, on a charge of insufficient funds. Judge William Ammer ordered a pre-sentence report to be made before sentencing.

Indicted by the second term of the September Grand Jury, Dean Davis, 5028 W. Second St., Ashville, entered a negotiated plea of guilty to a reduced charge of assault and battery. Davis had originally been charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and upon the recommendation of county prosecutor, the charge was reduced. The court ordered a pre-sentence report to be made.

A charge of breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling was reduced to breaking and entering an uninhabited dwelling against Willette Sue Frey, Columbus. Mrs. Frey was placed on probation for a period of five years. She had formerly entered a plea of guilty to the reduced charge.

Becky Sue Wilson, Route 1, Chillicothe, was placed on probation for three years. She had entered a plea of guilty to two counts of grand larceny at her arraignment.

Judge Ammer found Paul Downard guilty of violation of probation after he had been charged with three counts of conversion of trust in Circleville Municipal Court. Downard's probation was continued. He had originally been placed on probation for breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season.

Duncan Gets Top Post On Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert M. Duncan of Columbus, Ohio, was elevated by President Nixon Tuesday to chief judge of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals.

The 46-year-old Duncan, a former Ohio Supreme Court justice, has been on the court since October, 1971.

As chief judge he succeeds William H. Darden, who resigned in December. His term runs until May 1, 1986.

The Court of Military Appeals, final appellate tribunal in courtmartial cases, is composed of the chief judge and two associate judges.

Duncan's appointment is not subject to Senate confirmation.

Duncan was a protégé of U.S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe. They met while Duncan was working his way through Ohio State University at the airport in his native Urbana, Ohio.

Saxbe, then a state legislator, got Duncan a job in the state auditor's office. He became Saxbe's chief counsel when Saxbe was Ohio attorney general, and was appointed by former Gov. James Rhodes to the Franklin County (Columbus) Municipal Court after Saxbe was elected to the U.S. Senate.

Rhodes appointed Duncan to the Ohio Supreme Court in 1968 and he was elected to an unexpired two-year term in 1970.

U.S. Businessmen Protect Selves

MEXICO CITY (AP) — American businessmen in foreign countries are getting instructions on how to protect themselves and their families from terrorists and how to behave if kidnaped.

A five-page leaflet titled "General Security Tips for U.S. Businessmen Abroad" is being distributed by the American Embassy here and through consulates in nine Mexican cities.

Embassy security officers said the State Department drafted the pamphlet for worldwide distribution. They said the embassy receives at least one query a week on business or personal security.

The booklet makes no reference to events in Mexico. But 20 or more prominent individuals in various parts of the country have been seized for ransom in the past year, including U.S. Consul-General Terrance G. Leonhardy in Guadalajara last May. Some have been murdered.

Several Americans have been kidnaped by guerrillas in Argentina, and one, oil executive Victor Samuelson, is still being held.

"Be sensitive to the possibility of surveillance," the booklet advises. "Before leaving your house, check up and down the street for suspicious cars. Try to note whether you are being followed to and from work, or other places you frequent; if so, notify the police promptly."

It warns against traveling alone, suggests looking under cars for suspicious wires or strings before getting in, and suggests arranging with neighbors for private security patrols. It says servants should be told never to allow anyone not fully identified into the house, nor to accept packages unless they are certain of the source.

In case of a kidnapping, the booklet says, "do not attempt to fight back or to struggle physically. No matter how reasonable your captors may appear on the surface, they cannot be trusted to behave normally and their actions may be unpredictable."

And in captivity, "be alert to situations that you can exploit to your advantage, but do not try to escape unless the outlook is really favorable."

The pamphlet in effect also warns Americans abroad not to expect the U. S. government to ransom them. It says the government "cannot make the decision whether or not to accede to the demands of the terrorists. This is a decision that can only be made by the family or company of the victim."

THIRTY DAY WEATHER MAP—This National Weather Service map shows the expected temperature ranges and precipitation amounts for the next thirty day period.

Congress Cuts Budget, Boosts Overall Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1973 Congress cut President Nixon's appropriations requests by $3.3 billion but, despite this, it boosted overall spending for fiscal 1974 by $3.5 billion.

These are the final figures compiled by the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures.

The legislators paid more attention to economy than usual throughout last year's session and did make a considerably better record than in 1972.

In that year they reduced appropriations by $5.3 billion but raised spending for fiscal 1973 by about $11 billion.

The figures re-emphasize that congressional action on legislative bills often has a greater impact on the spending budget than what it does on appropriations bills.

Thus the $3.3 billion cut in the $292 billion in appropriations requested by Nixon in 1973 actually reduced spending by only $533 million for fiscal 1974.

The reason is that cuts voted in appropriations often affect not the fiscal year immediately ahead but future years. Spending in the year coming up is made up partly of current appropriations but also of appropriations voted in previous years.

The $533 million spending cut resulting from the appropriations reductions last year was much more than offset by two factors.

These were $3.3 billion of spending hikes in a variety of legislative bills and $728 million of further budget increases resulting from congressional inaction on presidential proposals designed to save money.

The net of all this was the $3.5 billion spending increase.

Despite this increase, however, the 1974 budget picture has improved greatly over the one painted by Nixon when he submitted his budget a year ago.

Nixon forecast a $268.7 billion spending budget with a $12.7 billion deficit.

The latest administration estimate, though, is that spending will total $270 billion but that the budget will be exactly in balance.

The elimination of the deficit results from a big upsurge in federal revenues caused by higher individual incomes and corporate profits than originally expected. It is possible these revenue estimates for the rest of the fiscal year ending June 30 will fall off somewhat if the fuel situation brings an economic slowdown.

A Page Of Opinion

Needed: A Modern Seer

More than 140 years ago Alexis de Tocqueville, a shrewd Frenchman, visited the then young American Republic and wrote a book about it. His "Democracy in America" took the long view of trends in the United States and remains a classic.

The French savant sounds prophetic today in much of his thinking. He said, among other observations:

"Democracy does not confer the most skillful kind of government upon the people. But it produces that which the most skillful governments are frequently unable to awaken, namely an all-pervading and restless activity, a superabundant force, and an energy which is inseparable from it and which may, under favorable circumstances, beget the most amazing benefits."

In America, he noted, everybody has a property interest to defend and attacks on property, as in poorer nations, are unlikely. He added:

"I have no hesitation in predicting that, if the people of the United States are ever involved in serious difficulties, their taxation will speedily be increased to the rate of that which prevails in the greater part of the aristocracies and monarchies of Europe."

Tocqueville had the following fears for America:

That the nation's great strength would some day be harnessed by tyrants; that the absolute power of the majority could be used for tyranny; that a Supreme Court of imprudent men could plunge the nation into anarchy or civil war, and that a democracy is ill-equipped to carry on foreign policy effectively.

At that early time Tocqueville correctly foresaw the evolution of the United States and Russia into the two leading world powers. They were the only nations, he said, that had not reached their natural limits. "Each of them," he wrote, "seems to be marked out by the will of heaven to sway the destinies of half the globe."

Such accurate foresight seems uncanny to a generation which cannot penetrate revolutions and evolutions and reach any firm conclusions. If it were possible to identify the Tocqueville of today and gauge the nation's policies to his thinking, it would be easy to proceed much more confidently.

NEW YORK — People ... Places

These times make people jumpy.

In Detroit recently, I was told by somebody that the airline on which I had booked a seat to return to New York had suddenly gone on strike. I called, and after listening to a recorded voice for a time, a young man came on the phone.

"I've got a reservation on your 4 o'clock to New York today," I said, "but now I just heard you're going on strike."

"That's a vicious rumor spread by the news media," he shouted angrily. "We are not, repeat not, on strike."

"Then, can I reconfirm?"

"Certainly," he snapped. "What is your name?"

I spelled it out for him.

"The columnist?" he asked.

"No," I said. "The vicious columnist."

The girls' Little League, which begins functioning this coming season, presents a number of problems which will have to be worked out by the administrators. Like tantrums. Will the rules provide that they are a sufficient cause for a time out?

Another crisis: Where do the girls go when they reach the age of 13 and are no longer eligible? Boy Little Leaguers can go into the upper cradle of the fine organization's baseball structure, or into American Legion or Babe Ruth League ball. They can stay with the game in other words, and do.

Last year, every major league ball club had at least two former Little Leaguers listed as regulars on its roster. The Mets has a whopping 19 out of 25 players, including Tom Seaver, Jon Matlack, and Jerry Grote. The Oakland A's had 22 of 25, among them Reggie Jackson and Rollie Fingers. Over the past dozen years, some 2,000 former Little Leaguers were signed to organized baseball contracts.

But other sports have been enriched by boys who were tempered in the competitive fires of Little League: Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Bradley, for example, and a couple of guys you've been watching on TV for the past few months, Roger Staubach and Fran Tarkenton.

From a personality and writing style viewpoint, it would have been difficult to find two more diametrically different sportswriters than the late Jimmy Cannon of King Features Syndicate and Arthur Daley of the New York Times.

Jimmy, who died last month, was tough-talking, rough-phrasing and a New Yorker who could have fitted into almost any of the yarns ever threaded by his idol, Damon Runyon. Arthur, who died a week ago, was gentle, soft-spoken, given to long pauses, and made a special point of never writing a harsh word about a sports figure.

But they shared one thing, and that was their abiding love of sports. They dedicated most of their lives to defining, refining, reviewing and writing about games and the guys who play them. Neither ever expressed a wish to write a novel, or leave the big town to take over a boondocks weekly. They were 100 per cent New Yorkers — each to his own life style — and New Yorkers by the millions will miss their clear and dependable reports.

TWA, American and Continental have put about a dozen of their 747's in mothballs for the duration of the jet fuel shortage.

Is there anything sadder in this age of superb aviation progress than the sight of such planes — each cost $25,000,000 — sitting there dead on the ramp or resting blindly in a hangar?

Last December 17 marked the 70th anniversary of the first heavier-than-air flight by the Wright Brothers. They would have fainted dead away at the very sight of a 747 in action, a machine so huge that one or two of their timid Kitty Hawk flights could have been made inside the jumbo's cabin.

Revived, the brothers would have fainted again upon learning that this ultimate extension of their invention could not fly because of a handful of bearded sheiks on the other side of the earth.

Speaking of fuel shortages — which soon will break out into gunplay at gas stations — how would you like to be the promoters of the annual National Boat Show, which opens in New York's Coliseum January 12? For years, that show has attracted crowds that stretched around the block, night and day. But now ... well, would you be interested in the "queen" of the New York show? It's a Hatteras 48-foot Yacht Fisherman. Yours for only $162,800.

Turnpikes Feel Pinch In Revenue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Declining highway travel because of the gasoline shortage has reduced toll collections and is causing some budget reshuffling in state turnpike authorities.

An Associated Press survey showed the East and Northeast — where there are more toll roads than in other areas of the country — were hardest hit.

Federal statistics show that more than $1 billion was collected in 1972 by bridge and toll operators. How much of that money will be lost due to reduced highway traffic is not clear. But preliminary figures indicate declines of about 10 per cent during December.

None of the areas checked reported plans to cancel highway projects or stop construction because of the revenue declines. Several officials said that expenditures for maintenance might have to be curtailed.

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority reported decreasing revenues on the main road and on an extension. It said the authority collected only $1,696,292 on the main road last month compared with $1,897,507 in December 1972, a decline of 11 per cent. The authority said that on the extension revenues were down about 5 per cent.

The toll money is used for operating expenses — including interest on outstanding bonds — for road building and other capital expenditures, and for repayment of bonds. An authority spokesman said a continued decline in business might mean a cutback in capital expenditures so the agency can keep paying off the bonds.

Welfare Outlays Listed By Auditor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's 88 counties received over $8 million for welfare assistance in December, the state auditor's office reported today.

Deputy State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said that $5.2 million of the funds subsidized county expenses for general relief and the administration of welfare operations. The general relief subsidy is deprived solely from state revenue, he said.

Ferguson said family and children services received the remaining $2.8 million in state and federal funds.

Despite a meeting of some of the City Council members, "to talk over things in general", there was no definite sign of a break in the dispute over a pay-raise-or-quit ultimatum issued in behalf of five city policemen. The officers had threatened to quit unless a pay boost was assured.

At the same time, it appeared likely Council would postpone a vote on a successor for Councilman-at-large Joe Brink. Brink had announced he would resign his job because he moved outside the corporation.

A substantial gift that carried high example with it was listed as contribution No. 1 toward the 1954 March of Dimes in Pickaway County.

Campaign Director Joe Wilson announced a check for $50 had been received from the Eager Beaver Club of the Pickaway County Children's Home.

The check was presented to Wilson by Shirley Vandergrift, treasurer of the club, a widely known organization in the district because of its work at the annual Pumpkin Show and various other activities. The club also played a leading role in many events arranged at the children's home. All children at the home were members of the organization.

Mayor Robert Hedges announced that Oscar Root, already named to become city safety director, would also hold the job of city health director.

How does a lie detector work? Is it sometimes used in medical diagnosis? Mr. H. G., Ky

Dear Mr. G.:

The lie detector, or polygraph, is a highly sensitive machine that registers even barely perceptible emotional responses.

There is a definite relationship between emotional distress and physical behavior, as when a person is embarrassed or upset. Perspiration may appear on the forehead and lips, a pink blush covers the face, and the eyes may become teary and bright—all of it in a fraction of a second.

A polygraph attached to the body at this time would quickly register increased respiration, a change in blood pressure, and a rapid change in the rate of the heart.

Fascinating is the use of the polygraph in medical practice. For example, it has been used for the early detection of deafness in infants and young children. Deaf children who cannot respond can be studied by their skin reactions that show up in the polygram. Its greatest function, of course, is its use in criminology.

Can a doctor tell if a growth is cancerous just by looking at it?

Mrs. T. V. M., Ohio

Dear Mrs. M.:

After years of experience doctors, surgeons and dentists develop a special diagnostic sense by which they can infer if a growth is cancerous or non-cancerous.

The appearance of the growth, its location, its color, its movability, an intact covering, and the associated symptoms help the doctor arrive at a conclusion.

However, the doctor never depends solely on visual judgment. When there is the slightest suggestion that the tumor might be malignant, part of it is removed for microscopic study and the exact nature of the tumor is determined.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A bright pigment in the energy picture is the realization by many companies that they can cut back on fuels, and save money in the process, without reducing productivity.

Awareness of the possibilities might have been slow in developing, partly because they were submerged in the crisis atmosphere immediately following the cutback in Mideast oil shipments.

But the word is spreading now, and energy usage studies might become a big new specialty for outside management consultants and for in-house productivity specialists.

Laurens van den Muyzenberg, an industrial management consultant, maintains that the energy reduction potential for almost all plants is more than 10 per cent, and that for many companies it is far above that figure.

Management's interest is aroused by such estimates, especially when the plant manager reports, as is likely to be the case, that he has never conducted an energy usage study of his premises.

Corporate management in the past seldom considered such studies, being more concerned with labor and capital costs than with energy costs. Much waste developed, therefore, and now it can easily be eliminated.

Van den Muyzenberg, president of H.B. Maynard & Co., Pittsburgh and London, began what he calls energy value analyses a few weeks ago and has zeroed in on what he believes are among the most wasteful practices.

To spot these areas, he suggests to company management that four responsible employees be appointed to determine just where energy is being used.

One studies consumption in mobile equipment, another in heating-ventilation-air conditioning, the third in production itself, and the fourth in auxiliary equipment, such as compressors.

These four employees must survey the plant, learn where energy is used and hunt for savings. They make out an energy budget and bring it to a steering committee, where an energy spending plan is developed. Elapsed time: two weeks.

Some companies, he found, are unable immediately to determine how energy is expended because batteries of equipment are hooked up to the same meters. He recommends multiple monitors or meters.

Most likely the energy value analysis will reveal that with better scheduling some machines can be shut off part time or even permanently, or that several machines can be combined on one power source.

More coordination in scheduling overtime also is important. In too many companies, he reports, a few employees on overtime are the sole reason for the plant remaining open. Better to schedule overtime in batches, he states.

In some instances waste heat can be used. One company surveyed in the past few weeks used air conditioning to reduce temperatures generated in testing equipment, while burning fuel to heat other parts of the plant.

Poor insulation and faulty heating equipment can be especially costly, van den Muyzenberg believes. Steam leaks around outlets in large plants can add 10 per cent to heating bills, he maintains.

Wasteful also is the practice of heating air once and then "throwing it out of the building." Once heated, a percentage of air can be recirculated instead of drawing and heating an entirely new supply of cold air from outside.

If, however, you are forced to cut production you have an entirely different problem to deal with, although a problem that can be dealt with smoothly if a plan is ready.

Just in case you do have to cut back, van den Muyzenberg says, "you have to be ready to drop that customer first who gives you the lowest dollar return per calorie expended."

13 Kindergarten Pupils Injured In Bus Accident

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — A 19-year-old man was killed and 13 kindergarten pupils and a bus driver were injured in a car-school bus collision in Lorain Tuesday.

Lorain police identified the dead man as James F. Rataj of Lorain.

A Page Of Opinion

Needed: A Modern Seer

More than 140 years ago Alexis de Tocqueville, a shrewd Frenchman, visited the then young American Republic and wrote a book about it. His "Democracy in America" took the long view of trends in the United States and remains a classic.

The French savant sounds prophetic today in much of his thinking. He said, among other observations:

"Democracy does not confer the most skillful kind of government upon the people. But it produces that which the most skillful governments are frequently unable to awaken, namely an all-pervading and restless activity, a superabundant force, and an energy which is inseparable from it and which may, under favorable circumstances, beget the most amazing benefits."

In America, he noted, everybody has a property interest to defend and attacks on property, as in poorer nations, are unlikely. He added:

"I have no hesitation in predicting that, if the people of the United States are ever involved in serious difficulties, their taxation will speedily be increased to the rate of that which prevails in the greater part of the aristocracies and monarchies of Europe."

Tocqueville had the following fears for America:

That the nation's great strength would some day be harnessed by tyrants; that the absolute power of the majority could be used for tyranny; that a Supreme Court of imprudent men could plunge the nation into anarchy or civil war, and that a democracy is ill-equipped to carry on foreign policy effectively.

At that early time Tocqueville correctly foresaw the evolution of the United States and Russia into the two leading world powers. They were the only nations, he said, that had not reached their natural limits. "Each of them," he wrote, "seems to be marked out by the will of heaven to sway the destinies of half the globe."

Such accurate foresight seems uncanny to a generation which cannot penetrate revolutions and evolutions and reach any firm conclusions. If it were possible to identify the Tocqueville of today and gauge the nation's policies to his thinking, it would be easy to proceed much more confidently.

NEW YORK — People ... Places

These times make people jumpy. In Detroit recently, I was told by somebody that the airline on which I had booked a seat to return to New York had suddenly gone on strike. I called, and after listening to a recorded voice for a time, a young man came on the phone.

"I've got a reservation on your 4 o'clock to New York today," I said, "but now I just heard you're going on strike."

"That's a vicious rumor spread by the news media," he shouted angrily. "We are not, repeat not, on strike."

"Then, can I reconfirm?"

"Certainly," he snapped. "What is your name?"

I spelled it out for him.

"The columnist?" he asked.

"No," I said. "The vicious columnist."

The girls' Little League, which begins functioning this coming season, presents a number of problems which will have to be worked out by the administrators. Like tantrums. Will the rules provide that they are a sufficient cause for a time out?

Another crisis: Where do the girls go when they reach the age of 13 and are no longer eligible? Boy Little Leaguers can go into the upper cradle of the fine organization's baseball structure, or into American Legion or Babe Ruth League ball. They can stay with the game in other words, and do.

Last year, every major league ball club had at least two former Little Leaguers listed as regulars on its roster. The Mets has a whopping 19 out of 25 players, including Tom Seaver, Jon Matlack, and Jerry Grote. The Oakland A's had 22 of 25, among them Reggie Jackson and Rollie Fingers. Over the past dozen years, some 2,000 former Little Leaguers were signed to organized baseball contracts.

But other sports have been enriched by boys who were tempered in the competitive fires of Little League: Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Bradley, for example, and a couple of guys you've been watching on TV for the past few months, Roger Staubach and Fran Tarkenton.

From a personality and writing style viewpoint, it would have been difficult to find two more diametrically different sportswriters than the late Jimmy Cannon of King Features Syndicate and Arthur Daley of the New York Times.

Jimmy, who died last month, was tough-talking, rough-phrasing and a New Yorker who could have fitted into almost any of the yarns ever threaded by his idol, Damon Runyon. Arthur, who died a week ago, was gentle, soft-spoken, given to long pauses, and made a special point of never writing a harsh word about a sports figure.

But they shared one thing, and that was their abiding love of sports. They dedicated most of their lives to defining, refining, reviewing and writing about games and the guys who play them. Neither ever expressed a wish to write a novel, or leave the big town to take over a boondocks weekly. They were 100 per cent New Yorkers — each to his own life style — and New Yorkers by the millions will miss their clear and dependable reports.

TWA, American and Continental have put about a dozen of their 747's in mothballs for the duration of the jet fuel shortage.

Is there anything sadder in this age of superb aviation progress than the sight of such planes — each cost $25,000,000 — sitting there dead on the ramp or resting blindly in a hangar?

Last December 17 marked the 70th anniversary of the first heavier-than-air flight by the Wright Brothers. They would have fainted dead away at the very sight of a 747 in action, a machine so huge that one or two of their timid Kitty Hawk flights could have been made inside the jumbo's cabin.

Revived, the brothers would have fainted again upon learning that this ultimate extension of their invention could not fly because of a handful of bearded sheiks on the other side of the earth.

Speaking of fuel shortages — which soon will break out into gunplay at gas stations — how would you like to be the promoters of the annual National Boat Show, which opens in New York's Coliseum January 12? For years, that show has attracted crowds that stretched around the block, night and day. But now ... well, would you be interested in the "queen" of the New York show? It's a Hatteras 48-foot Yacht Fisherman. Yours for only $162,800.

Turnpikes Feel Pinch In Revenue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Declining highway travel because of the gasoline shortage has reduced toll collections and is causing some budget reshuffling in state turnpike authorities.

An Associated Press survey showed the East and Northeast — where there are more toll roads than in other areas of the country — were hardest hit.

Federal statistics show that more than $1 billion was collected in 1972 by bridge and toll operators. How much of that money will be lost due to reduced highway traffic is not clear. But preliminary figures indicate declines of about 10 per cent during December.

None of the areas checked reported plans to cancel highway projects or stop construction because of the revenue declines. Several officials said that expenditures for maintenance might have to be curtailed.

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority reported decreasing revenues on the main road and on an extension. It said the authority collected only $1,696,292 on the main road last month compared with $1,897,507 in December 1972, a decline of 11 per cent. The authority said that on the extension revenues were down about 5 per cent.

The toll money is used for operating expenses — including interest on outstanding bonds — for road building and other capital expenditures, and for repayment of bonds. An authority spokesman said a continued decline in business might mean a cutback in capital expenditures so the agency can keep paying off the bonds.

Welfare Outlays Listed By Auditor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's 88 counties received over $8 million for welfare assistance in December, the state auditor's office reported today.

Deputy State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said that $5.2 million of the funds subsidized county expenses for general relief and the administration of welfare operations. The general relief subsidy is deprived solely from state revenue, he said.

Ferguson said family and children services received the remaining $2.8 million in state and federal funds.

Samples came from 33 states.
Saw-tooth grain beetle, 80; merchant grain beetle, 39; cigarette beetle, 30; red flour beetle, 25; miscellaneous cereal pests, 10; drugstore beetle, 9; indian meal moth, 2; insects other than cereal pests, 15; total, 210.

Cereal products often become infested right in the home. Only glass and tin containers are insect proof, so any package of cake mix, flour, etc., can be penetrated by insects if left standing long enough.

Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has approved three national security wiretaps since taking office because requests for the taps "piled up" while he was awaiting confirmation, a Washington newspaper reported Tuesday.

The Washington Star-News said the three wiretaps were requested by the White House. Saxbe took office Jan. 4. Saxbe was quoted as telling reporters he thought three wiretaps in just over a week was unusually high, but that requests had stacked up while he was waiting to take office.

The newspaper quoted Saxbe as saying he wants to streamline the procedure for authorizing the wiretaps.

The Star-News also quoted Saxbe as saying he has not been consulted on whether the President should turn over tapes and documents to the House committees considering impeachment.

Saxbe also said the President's State of the Union address will ask for new legislation governing distribution of crime statistics, the newspaper reported.

Benefits
Paid Direct
To Accounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department is ready to begin a program of paying government benefit checks by direct electronic deposits into a recipient's bank account.

The program begins in March for the approximately 3.5 million recipients of the new federal supplemental security income payments for disabled, blind and aged.

But Treasury officials envision its expansion in about a year to approximately 25 million Social Security recipients and in two years to persons receiving veterans benefits and civil service retirements.

Eventually, perhaps in two years, the government hopes to do away with all paper checks by making electronic bank deposits of all federal payments, including the federal payroll.

Officials say the direct deposit program, which has been contemplated for some time, has been speeded up because of check-cashing difficulties encountered by persons receiving payments under the supplemental security income program.

David Mosso, deputy fiscal secretary of the treasury, said that in March persons receiving the supplemental payments will be given instructions on how they can have the Treasury Department mail their payments to a bank of their choice.

They are delicious. You take them home, get the water boiling and plunge them in for about two minutes, then plunge them under cold water.

But not at $5.60 a pound. That's almost a 70 per cent increase over a year ago.

Who's getting all that additional money?

Perhaps the shrimp. They have become stealthy and are more difficult to catch. Not a bad idea. This keeps the shrimp family together—and that delicious fortune which is the taste of their bodies.

Maybe the fishermen who trap them are getting 70 per cent more in salary this year. That idea is doubtful if not downright incredible.

Perhaps the guys who cut off those delectable tails for sale are getting 70 per cent more.

Maybe the man who offers 20 shrimp for sale at $5.60 is getting the increase.

Someone is.

Grange News

SALT CREEK VALLEY GRANGE
"We're Having a Party" was the theme of the program given at the monthly meeting of the Salt Creek Valley Grange held last evening with over thirty members present.

This program honored those members who celebrated their birthdays during the past three months. Refreshments were served by all those members who were not celebrating the evening.

Many games were enjoyed concerning going to parties, and the evening closed with a poem "My Get Up and Go."

Business was conducted by Hoyt Timmons and included reports by all committee chairmen. The CWA Committee reminded members of the upcoming legislative conference at which time the granges will serve as hosts for those grangers attending from this district.

Bill Rihl, a member of the grange body, is a patient in the Lancaster Hospital; and Corillia Pontius is recovering at the home of her daughter.

The next meeting of the organization will be held on February 5, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeLong and Mr. and Mrs. Don Minor serving as hosts.

Armstrong Named To Finance Panel

Senate Republicans have chosen Harry L. Armstrong (R-Logan) to sit on the Finance Committee. This change results from Senator Stockdale's resignation from the Senate. Senator Armstrong now ranks sixth in seniority among Republicans in the Ohio Senate.

The Finance Committee is considered one of the most important committees and an important assignment. It is this committee that makes recommendations to the entire Senate on allocations of state funds.

In accepting this committee assignment, Armstrong said, "I appreciate this opportunity and am looking forward to having an increased input on how we spend the taxpayers' money."

Armstrong had previously been a member of the Commerce and Labor Committee. He will remain a member of the Senate Rules Committee and Chairman of the Agriculture, Conservation and Environment Committee.

Even Shrimp Now Out Of Sight

By GEORGE PALMER
The Cincinnati Enquirer
This is the last straw! Or more properly, the last shrimp.
A family that loves shrimp is not uncommon in America—boiled shrimp, fried shrimp, baked shrimp, shrimp creole, shrimp with tarter sauce, shrimp with hot sauce...
Shrimp!
I have loved shrimp since I was one.

My wife loves shrimp. My little daughter loves shrimp.
Less than a year ago a pound of shrimp cost $3.70, retail, at a downtown Cincinnati fish market—an inflated price, but still within economic reason.
Wednesday, a pound of shrimp was priced at $5.60.
That's about 28 cents a shrimp, since a pound of green shrimp still in the shell number about 20.

They are delicious. You take them home, get the water boiling and plunge them in for about two minutes, then plunge them under cold water.
But not at $5.60 a pound. That's almost a 70 per cent increase over a year ago.
Who's getting all that additional money?

Perhaps the shrimp. They have become stealthy and are more difficult to catch. Not a bad idea. This keeps the shrimp family together—and that delicious fortune which is the taste of their bodies.
Maybe the fishermen who trap them are getting 70 per cent more in salary this year. That idea is doubtful if not downright incredible.

Perhaps the guys who cut off those delectable tails for sale are getting 70 per cent more.
Maybe the man who offers 20 shrimp for sale at $5.60 is getting the increase. Someone is.

Perhaps Americans now on the sea side should take a few weeks off—of shrimp, gasoline, fuel oil, electricity, air flights and even close their eyes to the beautiful sunset.
Maybe the country would get back its senses—and dollars.
"Daddy," my little girl just said to me, "do you have enough chili sauce, horse radish and tobacco to make the hot sauce tonight?"

"Yes, of course," I answered gently.
"But we have no shrimp. Nor will we have tomorrow or tomorrow or tomorrow or..."

Little Cereal Pests

DEAR ABBY: The University of Minnesota's Entomology Department agreed to help your readers identify the insects they found in their cereals. We thought you would be interested in the summary of the kinds of insects found as submitted.

Samples came from 33 states.
Saw-tooth grain beetle, 80; merchant grain beetle, 39; cigarette beetle, 30; red flour beetle, 25; miscellaneous cereal pests, 10; drugstore beetle, 9; indian meal moth, 2; insects other than cereal pests, 15; total, 210.

Cereal products often become infested right in the home. Only glass and tin containers are insect proof, so any package of cake mix, flour, etc., can be penetrated by insects if left standing long enough.

DAVID M. NOETZEL
DEAR DR. NOETZEL: Thank you for providing my readers with the service. Now, if others are bugged by un-identifiable insects in their cereals, please send the little creatures to your own university.

Saxbe OKs 3 Federal Wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has approved three national security wiretaps since taking office because requests for the taps "piled up" while he was awaiting confirmation, a Washington newspaper reported Tuesday.

The Washington Star-News said the three wiretaps were requested by the White House. Saxbe took office Jan. 4. Saxbe was quoted as telling reporters he thought three wiretaps in just over a week was unusually high, but that requests had stacked up while he was waiting to take office.

The newspaper quoted Saxbe as saying he wants to streamline the procedure for authorizing the wiretaps.

The Star-News also quoted Saxbe as saying he has not been consulted on whether the President should turn over tapes and documents to the House committees considering impeachment.

Saxbe also said the President's State of the Union address will ask for new legislation governing distribution of crime statistics, the newspaper reported.

Benefits Paid Direct To Accounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department is ready to begin a program of paying government benefit checks by direct electronic deposits into a recipient's bank account.

The program begins in March for the approximately 3.5 million recipients of the new federal supplemental security income payments for disabled, blind and aged.

But Treasury officials envision its expansion in about a year to approximately 25 million Social Security recipients and in two years to persons receiving veterans benefits and civil service retirements.

Eventually, perhaps in two years, the government hopes to do away with all paper checks by making electronic bank deposits of all federal payments, including the federal payroll.

Officials say the direct deposit program, which has been contemplated for some time, has been speeded up because of check-cashing difficulties encountered by persons receiving payments under the supplemental security income program.

David Mosso, deputy fiscal secretary of the treasury, said that in March persons receiving the supplemental payments will be given instructions on how they can have the Treasury Department mail their payments to a bank of their choice.

MR. AND MRS. MARK STEPHEN DeMINT

Bridegroom's Father Officiates Marriage

The wedding of Miss Janet Kay Gulick and Mr. Mark Stephen DeMint was performed by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. John H. DeMint, 6:30 p.m., Nov. 10th, at People's Faith Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack E. Gulick, Route 5. The bridegroom's parents, Rev. and Mrs. John H. DeMint, reside at 411 E. Mound St.

For the double ring ceremony the church was decorated with vases of white, yellow, orange and bronze mums on the altar and piano. Candelabra flanked the altar and orange and yellow ribbons marked the pews.

Included in selections by Mrs. Ora Benner, pianist and Mr. John L. DeMint, vocalist, brother of the groom, were "A Time For Us," "O, Promise Me," "Love Story" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white rayon polyester crepe with an A-line skirt. The empire bodice with leg-o'-mutton sleeves was enhanced with two panels of Venice lace down the front which was repeated on the skirt. Matching lace edged the sleeves and hemline and formed the pearl embroidered cap holding the bride's chapel train and shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and lavender mums interspersed with satin ribbon.

Maid of honor, Miss Judy Lynn Gulick, sister of the bride, wore an orange polyester knit floor length gown trimmed with white lace and orange ribbon on the stand-up collar and waistline. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a basket of orange, yellow and white mums.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Warf and Miss Carol DeMint, sisters of the bridegroom and Miss Ann Strawser. They were gowned as the honor attendant in pale yellow with matching picture hats and carried baskets of orange, yellow and bronze mums.

Miss Jackie Gulick, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Ushers were Mr. Timothy DeMint, brother of the groom, Mr. Jerry Warf and Mr. Daniel Miller. Jeffrey Gulick, brother of the bride and Phillip DeMint, brother of the groom, were junior ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Gulick selected a floor length gown of gold polyester knit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow and bronze mums.

Mrs. DeMint wore a green polyester knit floor length gown with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze and yellow mums.

A reception at the L-K Restaurant followed the ceremony. Orange and yellow mums decorated the three tiered cake resting on four small cakes and topped with bride and groom figures.

Hostesses were Mrs. Theodore Gulick, Miss Pam Reichelderfer and Miss Suzi Ervin. Mrs. Daniel Mettler presided at the guest book.

For her going-away costume the bride chose a green and white double knit dress with black accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. DeMint is a senior at Teays Valley High School. Mr. DeMint, a 1972 graduate of Circleville High School, is employed by Reynolds Aluminum in Ashville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Columbus, Steubenville, Gallipolis, Williamsport, Bloomingdale, Ashville, Orient, Clarksburg, Stoutsville, Laurelville, Amanda, Kingston and Upper Arlington, Ohio; Baltimore, Md. and Germany.

Brooks Yates School Director Speaker For Nurses Assn.

Jay Clevenger, director of Brooks Yates School, was guest speaker for the Tuesday evening meeting of Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn. at the home of Pat Wellman, 826 N. Court St.

Alice Camp introduced Mr. Clevenger who presented a detailed narration of the Pickaway County Retardation Program. Teaching methods and facilities were shown on slides and explained.

He said that retardation is defined as sub-average mental development during the growing years. The county must provide a program for the students that have been disqualified by the public school system.

An individual approach with each child is best and the aim is to develop the child's mental ability to a level that he can meet the public school requirements. He said that many do this.

There are at least six known causes for mental problems: hemolytic disease, virus, prenatal, RH factor, nutrition and neurological and chromosomal problems.

Prevention includes removal of lead in old structures as lead in paint and old plumbing is a cause of mental retardation in small children. A proper diet is also necessary.

Brooks Yates School is one of five programs under Pickaway County Retardation Board. Others are pre-school, workshop, case management and home visits for those confined. The program is supported by state and federal grants and a six mill levee.

The question and answer period was lengthy and added to an interesting evening for the 15 members present.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by the co-hostesses, Mary Walters, Geneva Archer and Pat Mullins.

Carol E. Kirkwood, Timothy Bowers To Wed In July

CAROL ELIZABETH KIRKWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Montford C. Kirkwood Jr., 110 Collins Court, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carol Elizabeth, to Timothy Lee Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rojer E. Bowers, 479 N. Court Street.

Miss Kirkwood is a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School. Her fiancé is also a 1973 graduate of Circleville High School and is employed by Columbus Industries in Ashville.

The wedding will be an event of July 6th at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church in Circleville.

Officers Elected By Senior Citizen Kitchen Band

"The Forever Young" senior citizen kitchen band elected officers during its recent meeting at the Senior Citizen Center on Lancaster Pike.

Named to office were: Mrs. Lida Ross, president; Mrs. Magdalene Fee, vice president; Mrs. Ruth Miranda, secretary and news reporter; Eloise Fee and Alton Stonerock, treasurers.

It was agreed to hold meetings on the 2nd and 4th Wednesday afternoons during the winter months and in the evening during the summer.

For information or reservations for the band to perform Mrs. Viola Hartranft may be contacted by writing to Box 64, Tarlton 43156 or by telephoning any member.

Committees Report At CCL Meeting

Committee reports were made during the recent meeting of Child Conservation League in the home of Mrs. William Clifton, 620 Ridgewood Drive.

The project committee reported they had a request from administration of the Girls Group Home to purchase bedspreads. Members voted to donate the funds for the project.

Mrs. Carlos Alvarez gave a detailed report on the Christmas basket and gifts she presented to a deserving family as a result of special donations given at the annual Christmas Tea.

For the program Ned Harden showed slides of early canals of Pickaway County and others throughout Ohio.

Mrs. George Hritz announced the Annual Husband's Night dinner meeting is to be held Feb. 23rd at Pickaway Country Club.

Reservations may be made at the next regular meeting of the League on Feb. 5th in the home of Mrs. Robert Burton, 432 Imperial Court. Donald Humphrey will be the guest speaker.

MR. AND MRS. MARK STEPHEN DeMINT

Bridegroom's Father Officiates Marriage

The wedding of Miss Janet Kay Gulick and Mr. Mark Stephen DeMint was performed by the bridegroom's father, the Rev. John H. DeMint, 6:30 p.m., Nov. 10th, at People's Faith Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack E. Gulick, Route 5. The bridegroom's parents, Rev. and Mrs. John H. DeMint, reside at 411 E. Mount St.

For the double ring ceremony the church was decorated with vases of white, yellow, orange and bronze mums on the altar and piano. Candelabra flanked the altar and orange and yellow ribbons marked the pews.

Included in selections by Mrs. Ora Benner, pianist and Mr. John L. DeMint, vocalist, brother of the groom, were "A Time For Us," "O, Promise Me," "Love Story" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white rayon polyester crepe with an A-line skirt. The empire bodice with leg-o-mutton sleeves was enhanced with two panels of Venice lace down the front which was repeated on the skirt. Matching lace edged the sleeves and hemline and formed the pearl embroidered cap holding the bride's chapel train and shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and lavender mums interspersed with satin ribbon.

Maid of honor, Miss Judy Lynn Gulick, sister of the bride, wore an orange polyester knit floor length gown trimmed with white lace and orange ribbon on the stand-up collar and waistline. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a basket of orange, yellow and white mums.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Warf and Miss Carol DeMint, sisters of the bridegroom and Miss Ann Strawser. They were gowned as the honor attendant in pale yellow with matching picture hats and carried baskets of orange, yellow and bronze mums.

Miss Jackie Gulick, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Ushers were Mr. Timothy DeMint, brother of the groom, Mr. Jerry Wharf and Mr. Daniel Miller. Jeffrey Gulick, brother of the bride and Phillip DeMint, brother of the groom, were junior ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Gulick selected a floor length gown of gold polyester knit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow and bronze mums.

Mrs. DeMint wore a green polyester knit floor length gown with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze and yellow mums.

A reception at the L-K Restaurant followed the ceremony. Orange and yellow mums decorated the three tiered cake resting on four small cakes and topped with bride and groom figures.

Hostesses were Mrs. Theodore Gulick, Miss Pam Reichelderfer and Miss Suzi Ervin. Mrs. Daniel Mettler presided at the guest book.

For her going-away costume the bride chose a green and white double knit dress with black accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mrs. DeMint is a senior at Teays Valley High School. Mr. DeMint, a 1972 graduate of Circleville High School, is employed by Reynolds Aluminum in Ashville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Columbus, Steubenville, Gallipolis, Williamsport, Bloomingdale, Ashville, Orient, Clarksburg, Stoutsville, Laurelville, Amanda, Kingston and Upper Arlington, Ohio; Baltimore, Md. and Germany.

Brooks Yates School Director Speaker For Nurses Assn.

Jay Clevenger, director of Brooks Yates School, was guest speaker for the Tuesday evening meeting of the Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn. at the home of Pat Wellman, 826 N. Court St.

Alice Camp introduced Mr. Clevenger who presented a detailed narration of the Pickaway County Retardation Program. Teaching methods and facilities were shown on slides and explained.

He said that retardation is defined as sub-average mental development during the growing years. The county must provide a program for the students that have been disqualified by the public school system.

An individual approach with each child is best and the aim is to develop the child's mental ability to a level that he can meet the public school requirements. He said that many do this.

There are at least six known causes for mental problems: hemolytic disease, virus, prenatal, RH factor, nutrition and neurological and chromosomal problems.

Prevention includes removal of lead in old structures as lead in paint and old plumbing is a cause of mental retardation in small children. A proper diet is also necessary.

Brooks Yates School is one of five programs under Pickaway County Retardation Board. Others are preschool, workshop, case management and home visits for those confined. The program is supported by state and federal grants and a six mill levee.

The question and answer period was lengthy and added to an interesting evening for the 15 members present.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by the co-hostesses, Mary Walters, Geneva Archer and Pat Mullins.

PEDAL PUSHER POWER—Ricky Marshall, 29, a supervisor of the drilling department of a firm in Brighton, England, uses an old bicycle to generate emergency electrical power. Since power restrictions have been imposed in England, Marshall uses this method to keep one drilling machine going on non-power days.

Chile And Peru Engaging In New, Costly Arms Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — An arms race appears to be developing between Chile and Peru despite stringent congressional curbs on U.S. military aid and credit sales to Latin America.

U.S. intelligence reports the military junta in Chile is moving to buy more than 40 French tanks to counterbalance Soviet tanks recently bought by Peru. The two neighboring countries have had a longstanding feud over territory.

Meanwhile, Chilean military officers are said to have pressed American officials for U.S. tanks and jet fighters.

But the U.S. government still has not acted on a Chilean arms request made by the leftist Allende regime before it was ousted by the junta of generals and admirals last fall. That request still stands.

LCI Inmates Lose Privileges

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — About 600 inmates at the Lebanon Correctional Institute have temporarily lost their privileges because of "horseplay" Monday when a power failure occurred during breakfast.

Supt. William Dallman called the incident "immature, destructive and dangerous horseplay" and compared it to "raising hell in an army barracks when the sergeant is gone."

Five persons, two inmates and three guards at the medium security prison, were hit by flying objects, which included bars of soap, bottles and plates. There were no serious injuries, he said.

1973 Corn Crop Hits $13.3 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1973 corn crop barely made the record books in terms of quantity, but it was worth a whopping $13.3 billion to farmers, the Agriculture Department says.

Corn production last year was 5.643 billion bushels, just beating the previous record of 5.641 billion set in 1971, the department said Wednesday in a review of last year's harvest output.

Set Ruling On Vo-Ed Schooling

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Cathedral of Tomorrow has secured a $500,000 loan from the Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund to make initial payments to investors who reportedly have demanded repayment of $4 million worth of Cathedral securities.

J. William Henderson, who is handling the Cathedral's business affairs under a court ordered reorganization, said Wednesday that after the first rush of investors demanding repayment the Cathedral will continue to build up a trust fund to cover periodic payments as further applications for repayment come in.

The new loan from the Teamsters increases to about $5.7 million the amount owed by the Cathedral to the Teamsters.

Summit County records show that the Teamster mortgage dates to 1967, when the Cathedral secured a $2.6 million loan.

The original loan was increased by $3 million in two steps in 1969 and 1971. The Teamsters' fund holds a first mortgage on land, buildings and equipment of the Cathedral of Tomorrow in suburban Cuyahoga Falls.

Records show the debt had been reduced to $5,158,790 as of Jan. 1, 1974.

Under court orders, which stemmed from a suit brought by the Ohio Department of Commerce, the Cathedral agreed to set up a trust fund to repay holders of notes it had issued. The Cathedral had issued more than $12 million worth of notes.

The Department of Commerce brought its court action on grounds that the Cathedral had violated state regulations by selling unregistered securities.

Legislation Set For State Probe Of Oil Industry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation has been prepared to establish a select committee of the Ohio House to determine if the petroleum industry in the state is violating the state's antitrust law.

Rep. Tim McCormack, D-18 Euclid, is the prime sponsor of the measure. The legislation, which has 40 co-sponsors, was scheduled for introduction Thursday.

McCormack said it appears the petroleum industry "has ruthlessly and selfishly gouged the consumers of Ohio and the people of America while orchestrating a partially artificial energy crisis for their own political and economic benefit."

The new estimate was down about 35 million bushels from what USDA expected the corn harvest to be last November. Although relatively slight, the decline puts further pressure on feed grain supplies through the 1973-74 season.

Calculations show the estimated season average price of 1973 corn is $2.37 per bushel. The 1972 crop was worth $1.57 per bushel to farmers and had a total value of $8.7 billion.

The previous record corn production year, 1971, brought a farm value of slightly more than $6 billion at an average of $1.08 per bushel.

Although some other 1973 crops slipped from earlier production estimates — including some shaving of the soybean crop to about 1.56 billion bushels — over-all farm crop output was the highest ever.

Based on 1967 production used as a guide, last year's output was up 19 per cent to a record level. In 1972, the index was 13 per cent over the 1967 base.

Yields for many crops, however, were down from earlier peaks. Corn averaged 91.4 bushels per acre, compared with 97.1 in 1972. Sorghum, although a record 936.5 million bushels, yielded 58.8 bushels per acre, compared with 60.5 in 1972.

The soybean crop held steady at 27.8 bushels per acre, unchanged from 1972.

There were no new estimates for 1973 wheat and other small grains harvested earlier. Those were reported in December, including wheat at a record 1.7 billion bushels.

Middletown Plant Faces Closure

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — A decline in the construction industry has led to the planned February closure of a newly-completed Rutt-Williams Co. plant, an official of the custom kitchen manufacturer said Tuesday.

Layoffs of 100 manufacturing and office employees will begin Friday.

according to Don D. Montgomery, president of the Rutt-Williams division of Leigh Products Corp., Goodville, Pa.

The projected economic slowdown has hit the construction industry hard, he said.

Plants in Goodville and Elkhart, Ind. will remain open, Montgomery said.

However, there is little the United States can do to supply costly arms to Chile or any other Latin American country.

This is because, under the law, the United States is allowed to provide a maximum of $150 million in military hardware grants and credits this year for all of Latin America. Of this, Chile is eligible for only about $10 million and Peru about $20 million.

Congress has taken the position that the United States should refrain from contributing to an arms race in Latin America and should encourage countries there to spend money on social and economic betterment.

But Pentagon officials argue that the Latin American countries will buy elsewhere if this country refuses to furnish them arms or sell weapons on easy credit terms.

Last November, U.S. intelligence learned that the Russians had offered Peru T55 medium tanks and powerful 130-millimeter artillery at low prices, low interest and with 10 years to repay.

Peruvian President Juan Velasco confirmed his country's purchases from Russia in December, saying "We are not going to wait around with our hands in our pockets while our neighbors make their purchases of equipment."

Kissinger Set For Letdown If Mideast Talks Succeed

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he's getting ready for a letdown if his shuttle diplomacy between the Israelis and the Egyptians produces the agreement he has been working to achieve.

"People think that when it's all finished you feel exhilarated," he said somewhat glumly as the jet he has practically lived in for a week flew him to Egypt again on Wednesday.

"My experience when I'm finished with a negotiation is that I'm usually let down."

Kissinger has been getting less and less sleep as he flies back and forth between Egypt and Israel and confers long hours at each end. His normal quota on the road is about five hours a night. He made his trip to Egypt on Wednesday after only 3½ hours sleep.

Does he ever feel his own lack of sleep could have a bad effect on the negotiations?

"You know, when it reaches that point you are the last one to know it," he said. "I don't feel it now, because you have to balance it against the intensity of the effort. You get charged up."

"It usually catches up with me at the end," he added. "Right now I don't feel tired."

If Kissinger is experiencing any physical or mental strain, it doesn't show in public or when he talks to reporters. At 50, his face is unlined. And the gentle jokes bubble up easily.

When Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel accompanied him to his plane Wednesday, Kissinger commented to newsmen that he was a man who thinks "an enemy of Israel is one who only supports them 99 per cent — and he means it."

Bestseller Brings Charges

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Even though it's in its second year as a bestseller, "The Joy of Sex" is proving no joy to bookseller Ken Moffett.

He's the only person in the country to be charged with distributing obscene literature for selling the book, according to its publisher, Simon and Schuster.

Moffett was arrested last August, shortly after a United States Supreme Court ruling broadened the power of local communities in deciding what is obscene.

He was bound over to state court and freed on $300 bond. The court is reviewing motions to suppress a hearing and has set no hearing date.

The Moffett case has generated enough interest to bring the president of Simon and Schuster to Macon to review the situation, and to bring about a change in the city's handling of obscenity complaints.

Moffett's arrest resulted from an anonymous complaint, investigator Ellis Evans says. "At that particular time we had a lot of calls (about allegedly obscene books) and we were going around and checking each complaint," Evans says.

"We sort of think it was one and the same person making the calls," he added. "Since we've required that callers give their name and be willing to testify, the calls have dwindled down to nothing."

Evans concedes that the fact that the complainant was anonymous could harm the case against Moffett.

The softspoken, graying Moffett, a former Optimist Club president who grows orchids in his spare time, is an active churchgoer. His wife, Verna, helps run the three bookstores which are the only ones in Macon except for newsstands and college stores.

Moffett says the book "does show the act of sex," but he doesn't consider it pornographic. The eight copies he sold went to social workers and counselors, he says.

"I really think I'm being made a monkey of," Moffett said. "They've got the book stacked skyhigh in Atlanta bookstores."

He says after the Supreme Court ruling he went through his shelves and took out everything he considered objectionable. Then he wrote Mayor Ronnie Thompson suggesting a meeting to discuss obscenity guidelines.

Moffett says a few days later he received a call from the city vice squad chief, who said he couldn't meet then because he was going on vacation.

"It was the Monday he came back from vacation that they picked the book up," Moffett recalled. "It was, you might say, a dirty trick."

Cooler in the northeast with mild temperatures continuing in the rest of the state is the current Ohio weather outlook.

Skies were clear over much of the state during the night but in the early hours of Thursday clouds began to work in from the northeast and by dawn had spread as far as the Ohio River.

Clouds spreading over northern counties are the result of colder air flowing in from the northeast. A large high pressure center in Central Canada is moving east to southeast. The cool air from this high will cover the northeastern half of the state Thursday and Thursday night while mild temperatures continue elsewhere.

No precipitation is expected today or tonight although there is a chance of a little drizzle at times near Lake Erie.

The Board of Directors of the Pickaway County School Employees Federal Credit Union met Jan. 10 at the home of Mrs. Doris C. Gillespie, president.

A five per cent dividend was declared for the second half of 1973 by the board of directors.

The annual meeting will be held 6:30 p.m. Feb. 12 at the Pickaway Arms. All members and interested prospective members are urged to attend.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "For the mistakes I've made, I feel I've suffered. I would ask to be allowed to go back into the society to which I owe so much," said former major league baseball player Jerry Priddy before being sentenced.

U.S. District Court Judge Irving Hill sentenced Priddy on Wednesday to nine months in prison for threatening to blow up an ocean liner.

Priddy, who spent 11 years in the big leagues with several teams, was convicted Sept. 10 of threatening to blow up the Princess Cruise Lines steamship S.S. Island Princess unless he was given $250,000.

Priddy's attorney said the conviction will be appealed. Priddy is to remain free on $150,000 bail while the appeal is pending.

Man Faces Return For Armed Robbery

HOUSTON, Mo. (AP) — A 24-year-old man today was awaiting return to Canton, Ohio, where he faces charges of armed robbery, police said.

George Mayhan was being held in the Texas County Jail awaiting the arrival of Ohio officials. He has waived extradition.

Mayhan, also wanted for questioning about two murders, was captured Wednesday at a roadblock near this southern Missouri community, police said.

"A DELICIOUS DIVISION OF VAN-ORR FOODS"

'The Mousetrap' Continues Performances Thru Saturday

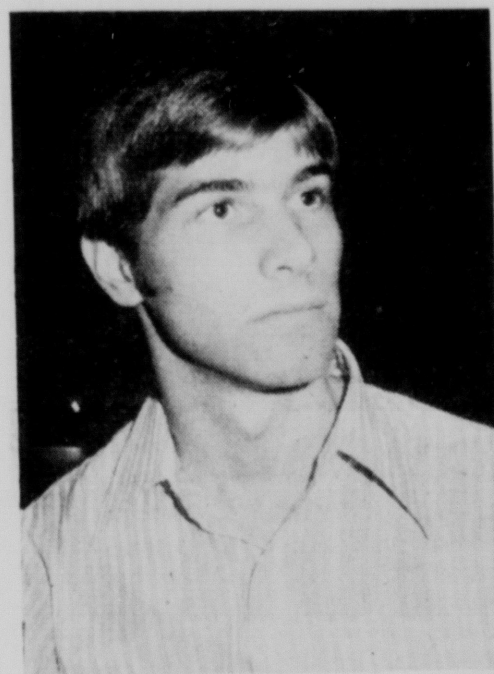

Jim Leckrone and Jim Fousnaugh share not only first names, but also the distinction of both being members of the cast of Roundtown Players' murder mystery, "The Mousetrap" playing now through Jan. 19 at Memorial Hall.

JIM LECKRONE

Jim Leckrone has been active in Roundtown Players for a number of years and currently serves as first vice president of the organization as well as chairman of the play reading committee. He starred as "Emil" in "South Pacific," and more recently portrayed the father of Rose in "Gypsy." He also has appeared in "Jack and the Giant," "My Fair Lady," and "The Crucible," which he directed. He has been involved in many other aspects of play production as well and has served as make-up chairman for several shows.

Leckrone has an extensive background in the area of radio and TV communications and is currently employed by the State of Ohio. He resides with his wife Laura and three children at Route 5, and will appear in "The Mousetrap" as Mr. Paravicini.

JIM FOSNAUGH

Jim Fousnaugh, a senior at Logan Elm High School, made his debut with Roundtown Players last November in the dancing role of Tulsa for the musical production, "Gypsy." Jim also appeared in "Cheaper By The Dozen" at Logan Elm, and hopes to continue his interest in the theater through further study, perhaps at Ohio University, after graduation. Also a singer and guitar player, Jim has made several appearances on tour with Jerry Raser.

An owner of two quarter horses, Jim is quite active in several quarter horse organizations and recently won five awards from one of these. He was Pickaway County's representative at the State Fair in the quarter horse division where he also won an award, and was first runner-up to the 1973 Pickaway County Fair King.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Fosnaugh, Route 1, and appears in "The Mousetrap" as Christopher Wren.

To Memorial Hall theatergoers, Clara Teegardin is certainly not an unfamiliar face. She has served as musical director for "South Pacific," "Sleeping Beauty," "My Fair Lady," and "Gypsy." But she made her first appearance on stage Wednesday night as Mrs. Boyle in "The Mousetrap."

Organist and director of music at the Episcopal Church, Clara has earned degrees from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, University of Cincinnati, Capital University, and the Ohio State University, where she served as pianist for the Browning Dramatic Society.

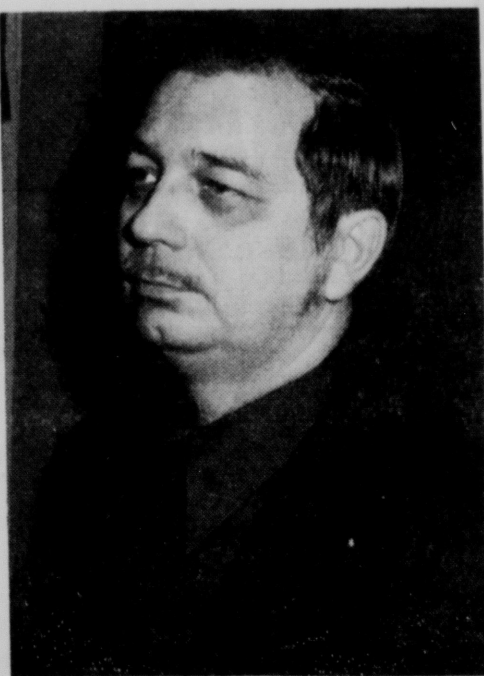

CLARA TEEGARDIN

She teaches private lessons in piano, organ, voice, and music theory in both Circleville and Chillicothe where she has a studio at the Baldwin Piano Company. In 1970 she served as musical director and pianist for the Columbus Jr. Theater of the Arts production of "Peter Pan" at Loew's Ohio Theater.

Clara resides at her Oakwood Stock Farm where she breeds registered Polled Shorthorn Cattle.

Eugene Dowler is another cast member who made his first stage appearance for Roundtown Players Wednesday night in the role of Trotter. But he, like Clara, is not a newcomer to the club. He served on prop committees for two past productions, and directed and performed in the club's Pumpkin Show skit, "Bertha the Bashful Daughter" in 1970.

EUGENE DOWLER

A member of the Presbyterian Church, Gene appeared in Wally Higgins' "Backwoods Genesis" presented there in 1972.

An active Kiwanian as well, Gene resides at 315 Lewis Road. He is married, with one child, and is employed by General Electric Lamp Plant.

"The Mousetrap" is being directed for Roundtown Players by Ruthanne Seibel.

RUTHANNE SEIBEL

Ruthanne is a charter member of Roundtown Players and appeared in the club's first production, "Picnic." Also to her acting credit is "Wake Up Darling."

Offstage, Ruthanne has been active in nearly every phase of play production, serving twice as assistant director for club productions. In 1972 she assisted Diane Berger in the direction of "The Sleeping Beauty of Loreland," and worked as assistant director with Dick Davis in the recent musical production, "Gypsy."

A graduate of Circleville High School, Ruthanne earned a degree in speech education from Ohio University and taught for one year at Teays Valley High School. She is presently employed in Columbus at Nationwide Insurance Co.

Cole Appointed Top Nixon Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has appointed Kenneth R. Cole Jr. as his chief domestic policy adviser.

Cole, 35, will continue to serve as executive counsel, the White House announced Wednesday.

Cole, with the title of assistant to the president for domestic affairs, will move into the office vacated April 30 by John D. Ehrlichman.

Cole's appointment was occasioned by the impending resignation of presidential counselor Melvin R. Laird, who served a short-term appointment as Nixon's domestic policy chief. He is scheduled to leave the White House on Feb. 1.

License Official Disciplined In Rhodes Renewal Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 65-year-old licensing supervisor for the Ohio Real Estate Commission has been disciplined for renewing the broker's license of former Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Victor Herbert, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Commerce, said John C. Johnson was suspended for five days without pay, effective Wednesday.

Department spokesman John Christensen said Johnson, an appointee of Rhodes, failed to comply with two commission guidelines.

He said Johnson was told to withhold renewal of Rhodes' license until further word from Commerce Director Dennis Shaul. He said Johnson also was told not to make any renewals for brokers who did not have trust bank accounts as required by law.

Christensen said when Rhodes applied for renewal last November, he did not have such an account.

Christensen said the case has not been closed. "We're reviewing the case and trying to answer a number of questions," he said.

He added that Shaul "will make the final decision" on Johnson sometime next week. He indicated that firing of the employee was a possibility.

Johnson was named to the commission during the second term of Rhodes, who served from 1963 to 1970.

Rhodes, a Republican, first received his broker's license in the final days of his administration. He was issued the license after taking a brief oral examination in his office.

He did not take the written test required of other applicants.

Christensen said the commission "has no clear remedy" to revoke Rhodes' first license under real estate guidelines. However, he said, the Ohio attorney general has been asked to prepare a court suit to challenge Rhodes' first license.

License Official Disciplined In Rhodes Renewal Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 65-year-old licensing supervisor for the Ohio Real Estate Commission has been disciplined for renewing the broker's license of former Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Victor Herbert, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Commerce, said John C. Johnson was suspended for five days without pay, effective Wednesday.

Department spokesman John Christensen said Johnson, an appointee of Rhodes, failed to comply with two commission guidelines.

He said Johnson was told to withhold renewal of Rhodes' license until further word from Commerce Director Dennis Shaul. He said Johnson also was told not to make any renewals for brokers who did not have trust bank accounts as required by law.

Christensen said when Rhodes applied for renewal last November, he did not have such an account.

Christensen said the case has not been closed. "We're reviewing the case and trying to answer a number of questions," he said.

He added that Shaul "will make the final decision" on Johnson sometime next week. He indicated that firing of the employee was a possibility.

Johnson was named to the commission during the second term of Rhodes, who served from 1963 to 1970.

Rhodes, a Republican, first received his broker's license in the final days of his administration. He was issued the license after taking a brief oral examination in his office.

He did not take the written test required of other applicants.

Christensen said the commission "has no clear remedy" to revoke Rhodes' first license under real estate guidelines. However, he said, the Ohio attorney general has been asked to prepare a court suit to challenge Rhodes' first license.

EPA Handout Use By Solons Hit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five Democratic state legislators used almost identical press releases based on letters from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency to disburse information to their constituents Wednesday.

The releases concerned $2.4 million in state money from the federal revenue sharing program for use in the improvement of local water supply systems. Such "handout" announcements normally come directly from state agencies involved.

In one release, Sen. Harry Meshe, D-33 Youngstown, and Rep. John P. Wrgo, D-2 Lisbon, announced funds for the villages of East Liverpool, Salineville and Washingtonville.

In another, Meshe joined with Rep. George D. Tablack, D-52 Hubbard, to announce improvements at the villages of Sebring and Washingtonville, and in the Mahoning Valley Sanitary District.

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, and Rep. C. J. McLin Jr., D-36 Dayton, advised Montgomery County that it is eligible for a $15,000 grant "from the State of Ohio's revenue sharing money."

All but Hall, among the five, are up for re-election this year.

The news releases pointed out that 52 communities around the state have been declared eligible for grants in three categories: improvement needed because of existing health hazards, $1.5 million; those needed in communities with uncovered finished drinking water supplies, $600,000 and those needing more laboratory equipment, $300,000.

Individual grants were not listed, but the EPA said East Liverpool and Salineville would share in the $600,000 earmarked for covering reservoirs along with Cleveland, Lancaster, London, Martins Ferry, Napoleon, New Philadelphia, New Richmond, Sebring, Springfield, Toronto, Twin City, and Warren.

Washingtonville is among 21 municipalities eligible to share in $1.5 million for basic water system improvements, along with Flushing, Irondale, Mount Orab, Greenfield, New Lebanon, Elida, Fairborn, Put-in-Bay, Kellys Island, Rock Creek, Adena, Trenton, Dillonvale, McClure, Ada, Gratis, Green Meadows, Bremen and West Milton.

The Mahoning Valley Sewer District is among 17 governmental entities eligible to share in the $300,000 for laboratory equipment. Others in this category are Akron, Canton, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Cuyahoga Falls, Dayton, Elyria, Hamilton, Lima, Lorain, Middletown, Montgomery County, Newark, Portsmouth, Springfield, and Warren.

Udall Sees Long-Time Energy Pinch

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Stuart Udall, former secretary of the interior, Wednesday said that the nation's technology will not be able to solve the energy crisis and the present crisis is only the beginning of a long term energy crunch.

"Technological arrogance is the root of the problem," Udall told more than 400 persons attending a Youngstown State University forum here.

Udall, who served under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, said those administrations did not foresee the energy problem because "We were too arrogant and too confident in the 1960s."

"I believe that we are moving out of a period when an abundance of energy was available," Udall said. "Most of what we have been able to achieve was because we had an abundance of cheap energy — natural gas and oil — and we can no longer take this for granted."

Udall criticized the Nixon Administration for "not telling us we're in deep trouble, which we are."

Udall said the oil companies should not be allowed to control the oil from the fields to the market place and said they are not responsible to the national interests.

The oil companies have been permitted "to exploit their situation very nicely," he said.

Body Discovered At Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — A teen-aged Middletown boy who disappeared New Year's Eve was found dead Wednesday in an icy stream near his home.

The body of Thomas Joseph Smith II was spotted in the stream after warm weather melted ice covering it, authorities said.

An investigation is continuing.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Take a book home to a boy tonight; a book on sports is sure to please. Did you see the N.B.A. East-West basketball game on television this week? Do you know who Kareem Abdul Jabbar is? A brief biography of him is available in the Sneek-A-Peek room. Many tall 14-year-old boys have wanted to play basketball, but few have been as successful as 6-foot-8 Lew Alcindor, or "Kareem Abdul Jabbar", star of the Milwaukee Bucks.

"Pro Basketball's Big Men" by Klein is a fascinating look at the seven footers who dominate the game today. Page after page of photos show these giant stars scrambling to win games and delight their fans.

"Joe Namath; A Football Legend" documents the rise of the small man to the stature of the most valuable player on the New York Jets' team. Boys will enjoy the story of a battling boy who can play even when injured and always inspire his team.

"Motorcycle Mania" by Radlauer is unique. It describes motorcycling in color photographs and a text of three or four words per page. There are very few books on sports this interesting and simple to read. There will be more to come on biking by the same author soon.

Magic and games play an important part in the life of a boy. Did someone in your family receive a chess set for Christmas? "Winning Chess for Beginners" by Reinfield has unusually clear and oversize diagrams of chess moves. "Illustrated Chess for Children" by Kidder tells the history of the game and includes large color pictures of the significant pieces. Chess is like an international language as it is played throughout the world. Why not try to learn along with your children?

How many times have you looked through a magic book only to find it hopelessly difficult for children? "Funny Magic" by Wyler and Ames is different. Simple tricks are carefully described as well as directions for setting up a complete magic show.

Most boys enjoy books by C. B. Colby, known for his excellent coverage of the military and outdoor life. "Chute", covers all aspects of parachuting, a rapidly growing sport. Eight year olds will thrill to the exciting life of a skydiver.

Also by Colby, "Musket to M14" pictures famous weapons from the early flintlocks to the high powered automatic weapons of World War II. If you don't know a pistol from a revolver sneak a look at these photos while your son isn't looking. "Arms of Our Fighting Men" expands the pictorial history of arms to include the bazookas and other big guns in our army's arsenal.

Less lethal but often painful is the rugged sport of ice hockey. "Great Stanley Cup Playoffs" is more than the title implies. It is a personal history of the men and teams playing hockey today.

You will enjoy these books with your children — and learn something, too. Try them soon.

Urge Change In Tax Base

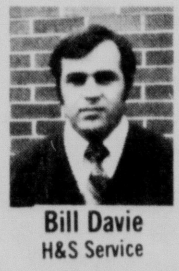

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill now pending in the Ohio House would grant relief from "one of Ohio's most inequitable taxes," says the sponsor, Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia.

The measure, introduced Wednesday, would reduce Ohio's personal property tax assessment schedules — now more than 50 per cent of value in some categories — to a uniform 35 per cent over a four-year period.

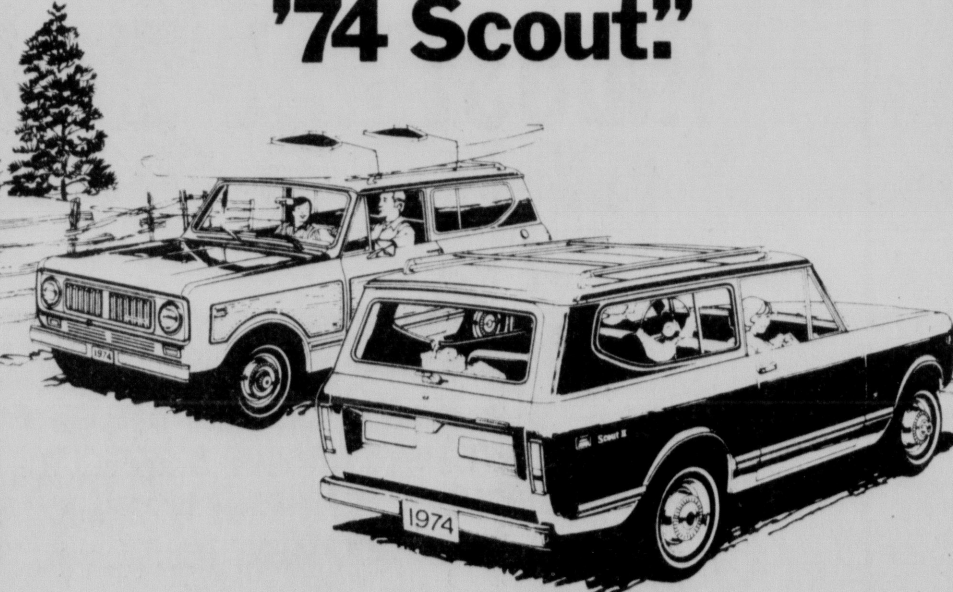

Hinig said "the bill will grant relief from one of Ohio's most inequitable taxes and provide incentive for new industrial and commercial development while assuring a sound financial basis for Ohio's public schools."

The bill affects inventories as well as equipment, and would place personal property at 35 per cent in line with the assessment rate chosen by the state for real property.

By stimulating in new investments, the bill would boost the economy to "minimize" any losses to local school districts, Hinig said.

"Like to lead a double life? Then get my '74 Scout!"

"After a week full of practical days, how about an adventuresome weekend? That's what my new '74 International Scout' is all about."

"You just put the dash-mounted control into four-wheel drive, and the Scout will take you to exciting places you wouldn't take a car."

"You can power it with a husky 6 or V8s up to 345 cubes. Gear it with a rugged automatic, 3-speed manual, or 4-on-the-floor. Power front disc brakes are even standard on the new '74s. And, of course, there are all the trailing options you might want."

"If that kind of double-life sounds good to you (and your wife), stop in and check out my Scout."

CHS Tigers Travel To Madison Plains Friday

After suffering a pair of setbacks last week, Circleville will be looking for the winning track Friday night when the Tigers travel to Madison Plains in a South Central Ohio League clash. The Red and Black cagers will be idle Saturday.

The Tigers dropped a league tilt to Washington C. H. Friday night and were upended at Teays Valley on Saturday night.

Circleville is now 7-4 for the season and holds down third spot in the SCOL with a mark of 4-3. Washington C. H.

and Miami Trace currently share the league lead with 5-1 records.

Madison Plains is currently tied with Wilmington for the cellar spot in the league with a mark of 0-5. But the Golden Eagles seem to have found themselves recently with two big wins in their last three outings.

The Eagles, a good sized ball club, are paced by 6-foot-3 David Joslin who is averaging 19.5 points a game.

Defensively, the Eagles will use a 1-3-1 zone but will switch to a man to man at times.

The starting lineup for Madison

Plains will be: Russ Tope, 5-foot-9, and Vic Tope, 5-foot-10, at the guards, Steve Scaggs, 6-foot-6, at center with Rick Givens, 6-foot-1, and Joslin at the forward posts.

Sickness and injury hit the Tiger camp with Robin Martin being down with a cold this week but he is expected to be available for limited duty Friday night.

Doug Radabaugh has an injured foot but it has responded to treatment and he should be ready for action against Madison Plains.

Circleville has been averaging 62

points per contest while limiting the opposition to 54.7. The Tigers have a 43 per cent shooting average from the floor and 67 per cent at the charity stripe.

Harold Reed is pacing the Tiger offense with an average of 14.5 markers per game, Kris Kline is averaging 12.4, Martin 11.7, Perry Hoskins 10.5, Radabaugh 6.0 and John Ankrom 3.2.

Coach John Lawhorn's starting lineup against the Golden Eagles will be: Ankrom, 5-foot-11, and Hoskins, 5-foot-11, at the guards, Kline, 6-foot-2, at center with Brad Spangler, 6-foot-3, and Reed, 6-foot-1, working up front.

The undefeated Tiger reserves of coach Dennis Stewart will be going after win number 12 at Madison Plains.

Circleville fans going to the game can take Route 56 through Mt. Sterling. About one-mile out of Mt. Sterling, turn left on Route 323 and follow it into Midway. At Midway, turn right on Route 38 and the school will be on the left side about six miles from Midway.

Ohio U Defeats Redskins, 73-71

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio's Walter Luckett hit three free throws in the last 14 seconds to pull a victory from the fire and keep his school on top of the league in Mid-American Conference play Wednesday.

Luckett's last-minute goals gave Ohio a 73-71 victory over MAC foe Miami of Ohio.

Miami closed within one point with 1:50 left in the game, but couldn't overcome Ohio's lead.

"This team makes a lot of mistakes and comes right back to win," said Ohio Coach Jim Snyder.

Also in the MAC, Bowling Green defeated Central Michigan 65-56. Junior Cornelius Cash led Bowling Green, grabbing 22 rebounds in the overtime battle.

"We did everything we had to do to win, but we just didn't win," said Central Michigan Coach Dick Parfitt.

"We had so many opportunities to win it I just felt confident we were going to win," he said. "But in the end we just seemed to be too tight shooting when it counted."

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley said Central did well.

"The only team that came to play basketball tonight was Central Michigan. Give them all the credit in the world."

"I guess you could place the blame on my shoulders for our poor showing," he said. "We were just too loose going into the game."

The University of Toledo ended Western Michigan's fivegame winning streak, defeating them 69-61 in another MAC contest.

In the Ohio Conference, it was Wooster over Ohio Wesleyan 83-47, while Case Western Reserve defeated Thiel 62-60 in the President's Conference.

In other basketball action Wednesday night, Findlay defeated Taylor 92-80 and Hanover beat Wilmington 93-79 in the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference, Ball State beat Cincinnati 99-82 and Wittenberg triumphed over Central State 66-60.

Other games included West Virginia Wesleyan 62, Marietta 60; John Carroll 80, Oberlin 78; Mount Union 97, Hiram 87; Akron 84, Cleveland State 59; Youngstown State 95, Alliance, Pa. 69; Rio Grande 85, Wilberforce 82, and Urbana 75, Ohio Dominican 67.

Wheelchair Basketball Game Plans Finalized

Mike Dempsey, a senior at Gahanna-Lincoln High School and member of the Buckeye Wheelers will give a half time demonstration of table tennis at the Easter Seal Society's wheelchair basketball game to be held Saturday night, starting at 7:30 p.m. at Mill Street Gym. Mike was a gold medal winner last year with the U. S. Wheelchair team which competed in the Paralympics (Olympics for wheelchair athletes).

MIKE DEMPSEY

Local participation in the game will make it more exciting and amusing when the CHS faculty and the Circleville Jaycees, in wheelchairs also, compete against the Wheelers.

Wheelchair basketball rules have very few exceptions. These exceptions are: Player-Any individual who, because of permanent severe leg disability or paralysis of the lower portion of his body is eligible. Contact-The chair is considered a part of the player. General rules of contact in regular basketball (charging, blocking, etc.) apply. Jump ball-For any jump ball, each jumper shall remain firmly seated in his chair and shall be in the jumping circle at a 45 degree angle to his own basket.

Time Limits-An offensive player cannot remain more than six seconds in the free throw lane while his team is in possession of the ball. Dribble-A man with the ball in his possession can take no more than two consecutive pushes in either direction. If he has taken two pushes, he must (1) shoot, (2) pass, or (3) bounce the ball before pushing again. Any more than three consecutive pushes by a man with the ball in his possession constitutes a traveling violation.

Loss of Ball-If a man in possession of the ball makes any physical contact with the floor or tilts his chair so far forward the footrests touch the floor, it is a violation and the ball is awarded to the other team. Out of Bounds-A player is considered out of bounds when he or any part of his wheelchair touches the floor on or outside the boundary. Physical Advantage Foul-it is strictly enforced that a player remain firmly seated in the wheelchair at all times.

An infraction of this rule constitutes a physical advantage foul. A free throw is awarded. Three such fouls disqualify a player from the game. Falling-If a competitor falls out of his chair during play, the officials will immediately suspend play if there is any chance of danger to the fallen player. If not, the officials will withhold their whistles until the particular play in progress has been completed. If a player falls out of his chair to gain possession of the ball or by falling keeps his opponents from gaining possession of the ball, the ball is awarded to the opposing team.

Tickets are available at Bingmans, Super X, Risch Drugs and from Easter Seal members.

Mantle, Ford In Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Sluggish Mickey Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford, long-time New York Yankee teammates, were elected to baseball's Hall of Fame Wednesday.

Mantle became only the seventh player in history to be elected to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He attracted a total of 322 votes on the 365 ballots cast.

Ford, who had fallen 29 votes short of election last year, received 284. To be elected, a player must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots cast. With 365 voters, 272 was the magic number for election.

Jack Billingham Outstanding Pitcher

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Jack Billingham, whose seven shutouts tied a 67-year-old Cincinnati Reds record, has been named his team's Outstanding Pitcher of 1973 by the Cincinnati Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The tall righthander, who led the National League in shutouts last season, was a runaway choice for the award. Pedro Borbon was the only other Reds' hurler to draw votes.

Reggie Jackson Wins As Player Of Year

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Oakland A's slugger Reggie Jackson will be honored as American League Player of the Year at the third annual Kansas City Baseball Awards Dinner Feb. 3.

The selection of Jackson was announced today by the Royal Lancers, booster club of the Kansas City Royals, and the Kansas City Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America. The two organizations sponsor the annual tribute to professional baseball.

The Washington D. C. International thoroughbred race will be run at Laurel near Baltimore, Md., Nov. 12.

Davidson and Ball State went to the polls Wednesday night ... and won in a landslide.

Playing teams in the Associated Press' Top Twenty poll, both unranked teams did okay—as Davidson stunned No. 11 South Carolina 70-59 and Ball State crushed No. 20 Cincinnati 99-82.

"It was just a case of them out-playing us," said South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, matter-of-factly. "We made a good run at them in the second half but we lost the game in the first quarter. They have a better bench than we do and that helped."

Davidson struck early behind Larry Horowitz and Mike Sorrentino, going ahead 20-8 with about 13 minutes remaining in the first half. The Gamecocks rallied in the second half, but could get no closer than three points.

Horowitz led the winners with 16 points while Sorrentino scored 14. Dunleavy had a game-high 22 points for South Carolina and Mathias collected 15 points and 16 rebounds.

Larry Bullington and Kim Kaufman scored 22 points apiece in Ball State's shocker over Cincinnati.

"It was a good win for them and they defeated us in every way," said a gracious Gale Catlett, the Cincinnati coach.

Jesse Jemison scored 20 points for the Bearcats, who lost their fourth game in 14 decisions. Ball State won its ninth game against five defeats.

Arnsperger Takes Over Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants, hoping to have some of Miami's Super Bowl magic rub off on them, pulled Bill Arnsperger out of their football hats Wednesday and now the former Dolphin assistant coach faces his most difficult trick—turning a 2-11-1 team into a winner.

This won't be the first time Arnsperger, who is credited with masterminding the Dolphins' powerful "No Name Defense," is charged with transforming losers into winners. He and Don Shula moved south from Baltimore to Miami in 1970, one season after the Dolphins finished with a 3-10-1 record.

Mara has been criticized for being a coaching owner and being blamed for the dissension which ravaged the Giants this year. After winning all six preseason games, the Giants finished last in the NFC East and then lost Coach Alex Webster, who resigned.

Arnsperger was a handpicked coach but the hand belonged to Robustelli, recently hired as director of operations.

CHS Tigers Travel To Madison Plains Friday

After suffering a pair of setbacks last week, Circleville will be looking for the winning track Friday night when the Tigers travel to Madison Plains in a South Central Ohio League clash. The Red and Black cagers will be idle Saturday.

The Tigers dropped a league tilt to Washington C. H. Friday night and were upended at Teays Valley on Saturday night.

Circleville is now 7-4 for the season and holds down third spot in the SCOL with a mark of 4-3. Washington C. H.

and Miami Trace currently share the league lead with 5-1 records.

Madison Plains is currently tied with Wilmington for the cellar spot in the league with a mark of 0-5. But the Golden Eagles seem to have found themselves recently with two big wins in their last three outings.

The Eagles, a good sized ball club, are paced by 6-foot-3 David Joslin who is averaging 19.5 points a game.

Defensively, the Eagles will use a 1-3-1 zone but will switch to a man to man at times.

The starting lineup for Madison

Plains will be: Russ Tope, 5-foot-9, and Vic Tope, 5-foot-10, at the guards, Steve Scaggs, 6-foot-6, at center with Rick Givens, 6-foot-1, and Joslin at the forward posts.

Sickness and injury hit the Tiger camp with Robin Martin being down with a cold this week but he is expected to be available for limited duty Friday night.

Doug Radabaugh has an injured foot but it has responded to treatment and he should be ready for action against Madison Plains.

Circleville has been averaging 62

points per contest while limiting the opposition to 54.7. The Tigers have a 43 per cent shooting average from the floor and 67 per cent at the charity stripe.

Harold Reed is pacing the Tiger offense with an average of 14.5 markers per game, Kris Kline is averaging 12.4, Martin 11.7, Perry Hoskins 10.5, Radabaugh 6.0 and John Ankrom 3.2.

Coach John Lawhorn's starting lineup against the Golden Eagles will be: Ankrom, 5-foot-11, and Hoskins, 5-foot-11, at the guards, Kline, 6-foot-2, at center with Brad Spangler, 6-foot-3, and Reed, 6-foot-1, working up front.

The undefeated Tiger reserves of coach Dennis Stewart will be going after win number 12 at Madison Plains.

Circleville fans going to the game can take Route 56 through Mt. Sterling. About one-mile out of Mt. Sterling, turn left on Route 323 and follow it into Midway. At Midway, turn right on Route 38 and the school will be on the left side about six miles from Midway.

Ohio U Defeats Redskins, 73-71

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio's Walter Luckett hit three free throws in the last 14 seconds to pull a victory from the fire and keep his school on top of the league in Mid-American Conference play Wednesday.

Luckett's last-minute goals gave Ohio a 73-71 victory over MAC foe Miami of Ohio.

Miami closed within one point with 1:50 left in the game, but couldn't overcome Ohio's lead.

"This team makes a lot of mistakes and comes right back to win," said Ohio Coach Jim Snyder.

Also in the MAC, Bowling Green defeated Central Michigan 65-56. Junior Cornelius Cash led Bowling Green, grabbing 22 rebounds in the overtime battle.

"We did everything we had to do to win, but we just didn't win," said Central Michigan Coach Dick Parfitt.

"We had so many opportunities to win it I just felt confident we were going to win," he said. "But in the end we just seemed to be too tight shooting when it counted."

Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley said Central did well.

"The only team that came to play basketball tonight was Central Michigan. Give them all the credit in the world.

"I guess you could place the blame on my shoulders for our poor showing," he said. "We were just too loose going into the game."

The University of Toledo ended Western Michigan's fivegame winning streak, defeating them 69-61 in another MAC contest.

In the Ohio Conference, it was Wooster over Ohio Wesleyan 83-47, while Case Western Reserve defeated Thiel 62-60 in the President's Conference.

In other basketball action Wednesday night, Findlay defeated Taylor 92-80 and Hanover beat Wilmington 93-79 in the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference, Ball State beat Cincinnati 99-82 and Wittenberg triumphed over Central State 66-60.

Other games included West Virginia Wesleyan 62, Marietta 60; John Carroll 80, Oberlin 78; Mount Union 97, Hiram 87; Akron 84, Cleveland State 59; Youngstown State 95, Alliance, Pa. 69; Rio Grande 85, Wilberforce 82, and Urbana 75, Ohio Dominican 67.

Wheelchair Basketball Game Plans Finalized

Mike Dempsey, a senior at Gahanna-Lincoln High School and member of the Buckeye Wheelers Will give a half time demonstration of table tennis at the Easter Seal Society's wheelchair basketball game to be held Saturday night, starting at 7:30 p.m. at Mill Street Gym. Mike was a gold medal winner last year with the U. S. Wheelchair team which competed in the Paralympics (Olympics for wheelchair athletes).

MIKE DEMPSEY

Local participation in the game will make it more exciting and amusing when the CHS faculty and the Circleville Jaycees, in wheelchairs also, compete against the Wheelers.

Wheelchair basketball rules have very few exceptions. These exceptions are: Player-Any individual who, because of permanent severe leg disability or paralysis of the lower portion of his body is eligible. Contact-The chair is considered a part of the player. General rules of contact in regular basketball (charging, blocking, etc.) apply. Jump ball-For any jump ball, each jumper shall remain firmly seated in his chair and shall be in the jumping circle at a 45 degree angle to his own basket.

Time Limits-An offensive player cannot remain more than six seconds in the free throw lane while his team is in possession of the ball. Dribble-A man with the ball in his possession can take no more than two consecutive pushes in either direction. If he has taken two pushes, he must (1) shoot, (2) pass, or (3) bounce the ball before pushing again. Any more than three consecutive pushes by a man with the ball in his possession constitutes a traveling violation.

Loss of Ball-If a man in possession of the ball makes any physical contact with the floor or tilts his chair so far forward the footrests touch the floor, it is a violation and the ball is awarded to the other team. Out of Bounds-A player is considered out of bounds when he or any part of his wheelchair touches the floor on or outside the boundary. Physical Advantage Foul-it is strictly enforced that a player remain firmly seated in the wheelchair at all times.

An infraction of this rule constitutes a physical advantage foul. A free throw is awarded. Three such fouls disqualify a player from the game. Falling-If a competitor falls out of his chair during play, the officials will immediately suspend play if there is any chance of danger to the fallen player. If not, the officials will withhold their whistles until the particular play in progress has been completed. If a player falls out of his chair to gain possession of the ball or by falling keeps his opponents from gaining possession of the ball, the ball is awarded to the opposing team.

Tickets are available at Bingmans, Super X, Risch Drugs and from Easter Seal members.

Mantle, Ford In Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Slugger Mickey Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford, long-time New York Yankee teammates, were elected to baseball's Hall of Fame Wednesday.

Mantle became only the seventh player in history to be elected to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He attracted a total of 322 votes on the 365 ballots cast.

Ford, who had fallen 29 votes short of election last year, received 284. To be elected, a player must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots cast. With 365 voters, 272 was the magic number for election.

Arnsparger Takes Over Giants

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants, hoping to have some of Miami's Super Bowl magic rub off on them, pulled Bill Arnsparger out of their football hats Wednesday and now the former Dolphin assistant coach faces his most difficult trick — turning a 2-11-1 team into a winner.

This won't be the first time Arnsparger, who is credited with masterminding the Dolphins' powerful "No Name Defense," is charged with transforming losers into winners. He and Don Shula moved south from Baltimore to Miami in 1970, one season after the Dolphins finished with a 3-10-1 record.

And since then, the National Football League record books speaks for Arnsparger's success: all four seasons in the playoffs, the last three in the Super Bowl with victories in 1973 over Washington and last Sunday over Minnesota 24-7.

"Actually, I never talked to anyone but Bill," said the Giants' Director of Operations Andy Robustelli in making the announcement that didn't surprise any football fan whose been awake the past two weeks. "I guess it's no big surprise."

The 47-year-old Arnsparger makes it clear that he and only he will be the head coach.

"Am I gonna be the boss?" Arnsparger, who was given a three-year contract, asked rhetorically. "I'm gonna be the football coach. I'll be totally involved in the whole program. That was most important in my decision."

Arnsparger rejected a similar position to coach Baltimore this season, intimating Wednesday that the Colts' offer was not string-free.

A similar concern has been voiced in New York, where owner Wellington lead LaSalle to an 85-73 victory over Drexel in the opener of a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra. Villanova shot 69 percent from the floor in the first half and went on to beat Detroit University 80-67 in the second game.

DePaul beat Marshall 76-68 behind Greg Boyd's 23 points; Bill Magarity hit three straight field goals in the final three minutes, leading Georgia over Georgia Tech 75-66; Bob Fleischer led Duke over Clemson 63-50 with 14 points and Leon Benbow had 29 points, pacing Jacksonville over fumbling Furman, 77-68.

Boston University trimmed Boston College 95-94 in overtime to win the Beanpot Classic.

Athens Coach Posts 300th Win Over 33 Seasons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Charlie McAfee, fourth on the alltime list of winningest Ohio high school basketball coaches, has reached another milestone, his 300th career victory at Athens.

A longtime writer friend asked for some answers and McAfee said, "I'm just a country boy. I don't need that publicity. It's embarrassing."

McAfee's record isn't embarrassing—555 victories, 167 defeats in 33 seasons at Ames-Bern in Athens County and Athens. His 20-year mark in Athens is 300-99.

Although he's 55, McAfee still packs the coaching enthusiasm of a newcomer.

"Practice still is a joy to me," the native Iowan said. "Coaching has never become a chore. If it did, I would have quit."

McAfee, despite all his success, hasn't led a team to the state tournament. That doesn't bother him.

"If that was the only thing," he said, "I would have taken other jobs. I just enjoy the type of kids we get here and the community."

Around Ohio: Waverly's 45-game winning streak in the Southeastern Ohio League was severed by Gallipolis 64-58. Ironically, Gallipolis has the SEOL record of 49 triumphs in a row. Greg Cobb of Olmsted Falls, the Greater Cleveland area's top scorer with a 37.1 average, had 45 points Friday against Bay Village and 37 Saturday against Westlake, including 21 of 25 free throws.

Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary faced a nightmarish week—Akron Manchester, No. 1 in Class AA, and Mansfield St. Peter's, No. 2 in Class A.

Wheelerburg rationed Portsmouth West's Kelly Shy, averaging 23 points, to 8 and it resulted in a 57-41 victory.

Jim Stefanich Leads In Bowling Winnings

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Jim Stefanich hasn't won a tournament on the Professional Bowlers Association winter tour, but he is the tour's top money winner after two events.

Stefanich, of Joliet, Ill., parlayed a third, a 30th and a perfect game into $20,625. He finished third and rolled the perfect game in the $100,000 Midas Open. He finished 30th in the $70,000 Don Carter Classic.

Luckett Named Top MAC Player

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Walter Luckett of Ohio University has been named by unanimous choice as Mid-American Conference Basketball player of the week.

The 6-foot-4 sophomore guard from Bridgeport, Conn., who has scored 79 points in three games, was selected by a news media panel.

Slate Public Hearing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A committee of the Citizens' Task Force on Higher Education will conduct a public hearing Jan. 18 in Cleveland on the operation of the state's four community colleges.

The task force was created by the Ohio Board of Regents to study colleges and universities.

Ohio State Gains Home Football Game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State has gained one home football game for next fall, but may lose another one.

The Big Ten school's Athletic Council approved a first-ever 11th game Wednesday, a home date Sept. 21 against Oregon State of the Pacific-8. It will be the first meeting between the schools.

However, the home opener with Minnesota Sept. 14 is still up in the air.

Name Ed Lawrence Best OC Player

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Conference Player of the Week is Ed Lawrence, who scored 42 points in two key basketball victories for Mount Union.

Lawrence, a 6-foot-9 Newark product, had 19 points and 10 rebounds in a 90-76 verdict over Wooster and 23 points and a school record 27 rebounds in an 88-67 triumph over Baldwin-Wallace.

Pitcher Paul Splittorff won 20 games for the Kansas City Royals last season in his second full year in the majors.

O.J. Simpson Top Male Athlete

LOS ANGELES (AP)—O.J. Simpson admits he's prejudiced when he says, "I think football players are the best athletes."

Named the Male Athlete of the Year for 1973 by The Associated Press, Simpson voiced his thanks, saying:

"This means quite a bit to me obviously since you're considering all the great athletes in all the sports."

"Generally speaking, I think it takes probably more athletic ability to play football and basketball. I would put basketball players in the same mold as football."

"There are so many things involved. I think even from the mental side there is so much involved in football that you just don't have in a baseball game, for instance."

Simpson won the award over a baseball player—Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves who was a distant second in the voting.

Simpson set a National Football League record by rushing for 2,003 yards last season with the Buffalo Bills who finished second to Super Bowl Champion Miami in the American Football Conference East.

He was a unanimous choice for the All-Pro team and was named the NFL Player of the Year. He credits his coach and fellow players for much of his success although he doesn't discount his own value, saying, "I consider myself as good a back as there is in football."

Since the end of the season, he already has signed a longterm contract with Buffalo, has been featured in television shows and works with the American Broadcasting Company as a commentator for televised football games.

In a poll of member newspapers, television stations and radio stations, Simpson received 332 votes. Aaron got 153 votes with UCLA basketball star Bill Walton third at 75.

A horse finished sixth, as Secretariat won the highest number of votes ever for a four-legged athlete in this competition.

Golfer Jack Nicklaus was fourth

Miami Of Ohio Eyes New Football Coach

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Sunday's the date Miami of Ohio officials hope to name a new head football coach and the lone non-Miami grad of eight applicants said he's sure he'll get "a fair chance" at the post.

Dick Crum, a key architect in making the Redskins the nation's No. 1 defensive team in 1973, said Wednesday he won't "be bitter" if he doesn't get the job.

with 34, Pete Rose of Cincinnati's Reds fifth with 22 and Secretariat got 20, three more than baseball's strikeout king, Nolan Ryan of the California Angels.

Simpson won his second NFL rushing title this past season but increased his yardage by 750. He smashed Jim Brown's 10-year-old record of 1,863 and gained more than 200 in three games.

Tanaka Ends Jakarta Visit

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesia's capital was quiet once again today as Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka of Japan ended a visit that sparked two days of student riots.

A helicopter took Tanaka, his daughter Makiko and President Suharto from the presidential guest house to the airport. There cabinet members and foreign diplomats said goodbye, but no students were on hand.

Tanaka arrived Monday night and spent his entire visit in the heavily guarded presidential palace compound because of the violence Tuesday and Wednesday.

At least seven persons were killed in the disorders, which started with airport demonstrations on Tanaka's arrival Monday and expanded into street rioting Tuesday and Wednesday. Some 10,000 demonstrators joined in the protests, and more than 200 were arrested.

The demonstrators, like those at other stops on Tanaka's tour of Southeast Asia, accused the Japanese of economic colonialism.

Dog Beaten; 2 Arrested

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati police arrested two men Wednesday for allegedly beating a dog with hammers.

The two were charged with public intoxication and cruelty to an animal. They were identified as Robert Collman, 44, and Larry Canter, 39, both of Cincinnati. They told police the dog was vicious.

When police responded to the call, they reported the dog lying behind some garbage cans. They fed it and said it did not react viciously.

It lost a tooth and had been cut on the head.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) said the dog would be kept two weeks then destroyed if a home cannot be found for it.

Trial Set In Slayings

FALMOUTH, Ky. (AP)—Two men charged in a mass murder last October which claimed six lives are to face trial April 23.

The date was set Wednesday. The two men—Wilmer E. Scott, 25, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and William H. Sloan, 24, Louisville—were indicted on 11 counts earlier this week by a Pendleton County grand jury.

The two escaped from federal custody in Lexington Oct. 1.

Circuit Judge John P. Lair denied a defense motion for a change of venue and for names of witnesses.

The judge ordered Commonwealth Attorney Larry Tucker to turn over statements made by Scott and Sloan to police.

Murdered were a Lexington minister, his son and daughter and a Falmouth motel manager and two construction workers.

HEADED FOR SEA OFF CALIFORNIA— Hughes Tool Company's ocean-floor mining barge is towed from Redwood City, Calif., port. Along with submersible drydock and a support ship, the 30,000-square-foot barge will be used to help detect mine feasibility of mining valuable ores from deep ocean floors. Rower is from nearby Stanford University.

Athens Coach Posts 300th Win Over 33 Seasons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Charlie McAfee, fourth on the alltime list of winningest Ohio high school basketball coaches, has reached another milestone, his 300th career victory at Athens.

A longtime writer friend asked for some answers and McAfee said, "I'm just a country boy. I don't need that publicity. It's embarrassing."

McAfee's record isn't embarrassing—555 victories, 167 defeats in 33 seasons at Ames-Bern in Athens County and Athens. His 20-year mark in Athens is 300-99.

Although he's 55, McAfee still packs the coaching enthusiasm of a newcomer.

"Practice still is a joy to me," the native Iowan said. "Coaching has never become a chore. If it did, I would have quit."

McAfee, despite all his success, hasn't led a team to the state tournament. That doesn't bother him.

"If that was the only thing," he said, "I would have taken other jobs. I just enjoy the type of kids we get here and the community."

Around Ohio: Waverly's 45-game winning streak in the Southeastern Ohio League was severed by Gallipolis 64-58. Ironically, Gallipolis has the SEOL record of 49 triumphs in a row.

Greg Cobb of Olmsted Falls, the Greater Cleveland area's top scorer with a 37.1 average, had 45 points Friday against Bay Village and 37 Saturday against Westlake, including 21 of 25 free throws.

Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary faced a nightmarish week—Akron Manchester, No. 1 in Class AA, and Mansfield St. Peter's, No. 2 in Class A.

Wheelerburg rationed Portsmouth West's Kelly Shy, averaging 23 points, to 8 and it resulted in a 57-41 victory.

Jim Stefanich Leads In Bowling Winnings

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Jim Stefanich hasn't won a tournament on the Professional Bowlers Association winter tour, but he is the tour's top money winner after two events.

Stefanich, of Joliet, Ill., parlayed a third, a 30th and a perfect game into $20,625. He finished third and rolled the perfect game in the $100,000 Midas Open. He finished 30th in the $70,000 Don Carter Classic.

Luckett Named Top MAC Player

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Walter Luckett of Ohio University has been named by unanimous choice as Mid-American Conference Basketball player of the week.

The 6-foot-4 sophomore guard from Bridgeport, Conn., who has scored 79 points in three games, was selected by a news media panel.

Slate Public Hearing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A committee of the Citizens' Task Force on Higher Education will conduct a public hearing Jan. 18 in Cleveland on the operation of the state's four community colleges.

The task force was created by the Ohio Board of Regents to study colleges and universities.

Ohio State Gains Home Football Game

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State has gained one home football game for next fall, but may lose another one.

The Big Ten school's Athletic Council approved a first-ever 11th game Wednesday, a home date Sept. 21 against Oregon State of the Pacific-8. It will be the first meeting between the schools.

However, the home opener with Minnesota Sept. 14 is still up in the air.

Name Ed Lawrence Best OC Player

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Conference Player of the Week is Ed Lawrence, who scored 42 points in two key basketball victories for Mount Union.

Lawrence, a 6-foot-9 Newburg product, had 19 points and 10 rebounds in a 90-76 verdict over Wooster and 23 points and a school record 27 rebounds in an 88-67 triumph over Baldwin-Wallace.

Pitcher Paul Splittorff won 20 games for the Kansas City Royals last season in his second full year in the majors.

O.J. Simpson Top Male Athlete

LOS ANGELES (AP)—O.J. Simpson admits he's prejudiced when he says, "I think football players are the best athletes."

Named the Male Athlete of the Year for 1973 by The Associated Press, Simpson voiced his thanks, saying:

"This means quite a bit to me obviously since you're considering all the great athletes in all the sports."

"Generally speaking, I think it takes probably more athletic ability to play football and basketball. I would put basketball players in the same mold as football."

"There are so many things involved. I think even from the mental side there is so much involved in football that you just don't have in a baseball game, for instance."

Simpson won the award over a baseball player—Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves who was a distant second in the voting.

Simpson set a National Football League record by rushing for 2,003 yards last season with the Buffalo Bills who finished second to Super Bowl Champion Miami in the American Football Conference East.

He was a unanimous choice for the All-Pro team and was named the NFL Player of the Year. He credits his coach and fellow players for much of his success although he doesn't discount his own value, saying, "I consider myself as good a back as there is in football."

Since the end of the season, he already has signed a longterm contract with Buffalo, has been featured in television shows and works with the American Broadcasting Company as a commentator for televised football games.

In a poll of member newspapers, television stations and radio stations, Simpson received 332 votes. Aaron got 153 votes with UCLA basketball star Bill Walton third at 75.

A horse finished sixth, as Secretariat won the highest number of votes ever for a four-legged athlete in this competition.

Golfer Jack Nicklaus was fourth

Miami Of Ohio Eyes New Football Coach

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Sunday's date Miami of Ohio officials hope to name a new head football coach and the lone non-Miami grad of eight applicants said he's sure he'll get "a fair chance" at the post.

Dick Crum, a key architect in making the Redskins the nation's No. 1 defensive team in 1973, said Wednesday he won't "be bitter" if he doesn't get the job.

Dog Beaten; 2 Arrested

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati police arrested two men Wednesday for allegedly beating a dog with hammers.

The two were charged with public intoxication and cruelty to an animal. They were identified as Robert Collman, 44, and Larry Canter, 39, both of Cincinnati. They told police the dog was vicious.

When police responded to the call, they reported the dog lying behind some garbage cans. They fed it and said it did not react viciously.

It lost a tooth and had been cut on the head.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) said the dog would be kept two weeks then destroyed if a home cannot be found for it.

Trial Set In Slayings

FALMOUTH, Ky. (AP)—Two men charged in a mass murder last October which claimed six lives are to face trial April 23.

The date was set Wednesday. The two men—Wilmer E. Scott, 25, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and William H. Sloan, 24, Louisville—were indicted on 11 counts earlier this week by a Pendleton County grand jury.

The two escaped from federal custody in Lexington Oct. 1.

Circuit Judge John P. Lair denied a defense motion for a change of venue and for names of witnesses.

The judge ordered Commonwealth Attorney Larry Tucker to turn over statements made by Scott and Sloan to police.

Murdered were a Lexington minister, his son and daughter and a Falmouth motel manager and two construction workers.

Your Horoscope Television Schedule

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Though restlessness and some contention may prevail, it is within your power to cope with them and make this day a memorable one.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21): If you have a problem to solve, wait until the early afternoon when influences will be better than in the a.m. It may be better for you to modify your attitudes and demands.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your outlook and approach will be most important now. In all that you do, consider your motives carefully. Do capitalize on your bright ideas, too. They could pay off.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You should find yourself freer to spend the day according to your own desires now. Lunar influences favor the completion of confidential financial arrangements.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): If yesterday was well spent, this day should be even better. Your thinking should be sound and you have a big chance to take a fine step forward.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Situations may place you in conflict with those who are enforcing "rules." Arguments will not get you anywhere, however. Be discreet and amiable.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): If you attempt to gain your way by unconventional methods, it could cause discord. Emphasize reason, logic, harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Many problems which have bothered you in the past may be resolved now. Good deeds of the past may also pay off. Don't allow a feeling of lethargy to spoil what could be a very happy day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Avoid exaggeration in action or words. This can be a day of tremendously useful performance if you note immediate needs and forget past disappointments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Admonition for this day: Avoid haste in all things, especially in making decisions. Look closely at all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Be prepared for interruptions, necessary delays. Some order and specifics will be disrupted, perhaps not showing effects till later. Clear the atmosphere of tension.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): If in doubt as to procedures, consult an expert who can set you straight. But, once having solicited the advice, do not ignore it.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly individualistic person, may mentally soar to the clouds (often expressed in poetry or art), but are also first and foremost when practical action is needed. This combination of imagination and efficiency is a potent one and can lead you to the top in almost any career you choose. And, once on top, you know how to stay there. Your ideas, though unique, are always feasible when put into practice. You make excellent business leaders, writers, statesmen, physicians and explorers. Birthdate of: Daniel Webster, early American statesman, orator.

N.M. Enrollment Over 20,000

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — For the first time in its 81-year history, student enrollment at the University of New Mexico has topped 20,000.

Dean of Admissions Robert Weaver said enrollment for the 1973 fall semester was 20,123. This figure includes students at the main campus in Albuquerque, the Los Alamos Graduate Center, the Gallup branch and the Northern New Mexico branch at Espanola.

Main campus enrollment was 18,981, a 1.8 per cent increase over 1972 fall semester figures.

More Men At U Of NM

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The University of New Mexico main branch in Albuquerque had 11,228 male students and 8,895 females registered for the 1973 fall semester. About three of every 11 students are nonresidents.

Powered By Shank's Pony

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Economists at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. say Americans will buy more bikes and motorcycles than cars in 1974 and that by 1980 two-wheeled vehicles will outnumber cars on U.S. roads for the first time since Henry Ford introduced the Model T some 60 years ago.

A trinity College student, Josiah Blackwell, Class of 1866, played for the first baseball club of Hartford, Conn., the "Charter Oak Nine."

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, realism and excitement action-adventure fans. The remains with "Birds of ABC Television network Prey," a 90-minute gem that starts bidding for your at-featured an incredible tenton tonight with two new chopper chase over the Utah desert.

CBS aired this show a year ago and I wish they'd rerun it soon. It's an aviation classic the makers of "Chopper One" might study.

The first is a waste of fire, the second a waste of fuel. "Chopper One," a saga of two young pilot-cops who battle Los Angeles villains from a Jetranger helicopter, James Drury as a fire cap is particularly disappointing tain, offers scant hope of redemption and wastes the talents of its five regulars. In tonight's effort, they foil a especially the low-level kind, is one of the most exhilarating experiences yet devised.

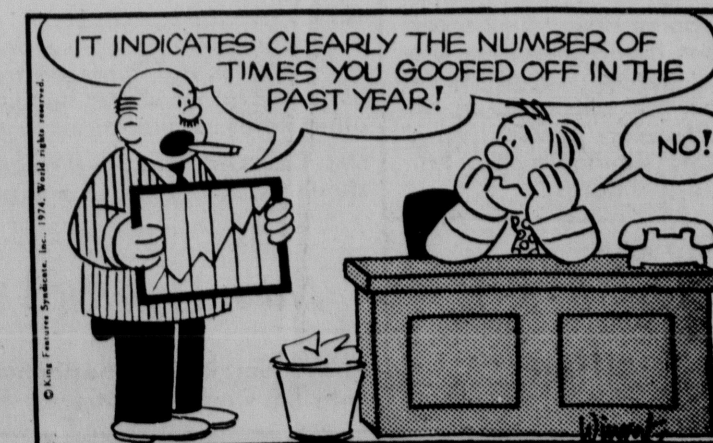

Although the aerial photography in this new show captures some of this excitement and the lead actors Jim McMullan and Dirk Benedict turn in good performances, the proceedings fall flat.

What could have been a good flying show isn't supported by a passable plot line or even a pre-flight check. It's a routine two-incident opus in which our heroes rescue a boy from drowning, Washington, D.C. then help their grounding colleagues bring two purported kidnappers to justice after a hotel shootout.

As a flying nut, I sincerely hope the show improves. But until that happens, the TV title for best flingwing NBC since 1963.

Back in the real world, NBC congressional correspondent Paul Duke, 47, is leaving NBC in early February and joining public TV as a correspondent-moderator for the National Public Affairs Center for Television in Washington, D.C. NPACT president James Karayn says Duke's annual salary will be in the $55,000 range. Duke, a good, seasoned newsman with a wire service and newspaper background, has been with TV title for best flingwing NBC since 1963.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, realism and excitement remains with "Birds of ABC Television network Prey," a 90-minute gem that starts bidding for your attention tonight with two new half-hour series, "Firehouse" and "Chopper One." Now the bad news.

The first is a waste of fire, the second a waste of fuel. "Chopper One," a saga of two young pilot-cops who battle Los Angeles villains from a Jetranger helicopter, is particularly disappointing for chopper freaks. I have reference to me. Helicopter flying, especially the low-level kind, is one of the most exhilarating experiences yet devised.

Although the aerial photography in this new show captures some of this excitement and the lead actors Jim McMullan and Dirk Benedict turn in good performances, the proceedings fall flat. What could have been a good flying show isn't supported by a passable plot line or even a pre-flight check.

It's a routine two-incident opus in which our heroes rescue a boy from drowning, then help their grounding colleagues bring two purported kidnappers to justice after a hotel shootout.

As a flying nut, I sincerely hope the show improves. But until that happens, the TV title for best flingwing

"Firehouse," starring James Drury as a fire captain, offers scant hope of redemption and wastes the talents of its five regulars. In tonight's effort, they foil a suicide try and save lives in a burning, modern firetrap called a high-rise office building.

It's strictly flambe foolishness and unless major improvements are afoot, Marvin the Torch should be made its film editor.

Back in the real world, NBC congressional correspondent Paul Duke, 47, is leaving NBC in early February and joining public TV as a correspondent-moderator for the National Public Affairs Center for Television in Washington, D.C.

NPACT president James Karayn says Duke's annual salary will be in the $55,000 range. Duke, a good, seasoned newsmen with a wire service and newspaper background, has been with NBC since 1963.

Acrobatics Latest Thing In Skiing

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. (AP) — "Hot dog," cried Jack Sanders as he took off down the mountain, dancing first on one ski, then the other, turning, jumping, laughing, falling and rolling in the snow like a 3-year-old.

All the slope was a stage. The falling snow seemed to part like a curtain as this frolicking figure in a royal blue snowsuit did one fancy stunt after another.

Sanders, a 38-year-old lawyer from Hampton, N.H., was the star, a student of a new form of skiing that is captivating imaginations of young bombers and older, established types alike.

From the sun-drenched slopes of California's Squaw Valley to the woodland trails winding down the rugged mountains of New England, acrobatics are "in," the biggest thing for skiing since buckle boots.

Some call it "freestyle." To others, it's "hot-dogging." And its disciples are a new breed of skiers, the loose and lively free spirits of the mountains, grooving on everything they were always taught not to do.

"It really blows my mind. I have a helluva time," said Sanders, who was a downhill racer in college. "One weekend of this relaxes me as much as a whole week of skiing used to... It makes skiing a whole new sport."

For years, the ultimate for most skiers was conquering the parallel, whipping down a mountain slope with knees and skis together, leaving a ribbonlike trail behind, kicking up clouds of snow at anyone who got in the way. Today, however, skiers who have mastered the art of flying down an expert trail with their skis together are getting their kicks by learning to cross one ski over the other, doing splits in the snow, turning in full circles and bounding from one snowbank to another, often collapsing on the backs of their skis in what at first glance looks like a backbreaking fall.

For freestyle skiing is a combination of figure skating, ballet, gymnastics, aerial jumping — and imagination. Rubber bones would help. It's style, not speed that counts. And the maneuvers, with names like Daffy, Otrigger, Helicopter and Space Walk are instant crowdpleasers.

"Everyone has his own style," said Wayne Wong, a 23-year-old Vancouver, B.C., native of Chinese descent whose stormcloud antics and daring flips have made him America's No. 1 hot-dog hero.

"There are no limits," he said with a puckish grin between freestyle performances at the Washington ski show. "My maximum energy flows in aerial. We don't know what the limits are. The further we go, the more we see can be done."

"It's a revolution in the ski industry," said "Airborne Eddie" Ferguson, 26, who runs freestyle skiing camps at Crystal Mountain in Washington State and at Vail, Colo. "You don't need the perfect technique to have fun."

Gas Rationing Gouges Feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you need extra gasoline under the administration's proposed rationing plan, the only way to get it — short of qualifying as a hardship case — would be to buy somebody's ration coupons and pay his price.

Well-informed brokers could buy up available coupons and resell them at jacked-up prices, John Hill, an assistant director of the Federal Energy Office, confirmed in an interview Tuesday.

The rich could buy coupons at premium prices to run limousines or yachts.

And the guy who drives for a living and needs additional gasoline to maintain or increase his income would have to join the bidding for coupons.

But Hill said the energy office believes there is enough flexibility in gasoline buying habits to prevent extreme prices for coupons.

Hill admitted the system would allow some unfairness in the distribution. But he argued that a complex system of priorities among users would involve arbitrary decisions that could be equally unfair and would be an administrative nightmare.

The plan was proposed Tuesday by FEO administrator William E. Simon as one possible blueprint for building a standby gasoline rationing system. The system may never be used.

Simon announced last Dec. 27 the administration's decision to set up a standby system, and to wait and see if rationing really becomes necessary.

Essential services and other businesses that buy gasoline in bulk will get their supplies first under fuel allocation regulations put into effect late Monday.

Gasoline stations would share whatever gasoline is left over. Normally, that's about 72 per cent of total gasoline supply, the Transportation Department has estimated.

But Simon's Federal Energy Office estimates gasoline will be about 20 per cent short of demand early this year.

Motorists who do not buy in bulk, but fuel their vehicles at service stations, would all come under coupon rationing if it becomes necessary.

Every licensed driver at least 18 years old — and some younger ones who could demonstrate need — would be given an official card authorizing him to get ration coupons.

Oil Shale Extraction Simplified

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Occidental Petroleum Corp. says it has developed a method for extracting oil from shale that avoids ecological problems and is even cheaper than rival processes.

The company statement was issued Tuesday in response to a query from the New York Stock Exchange after heavy trading in Occidental stock.

The Occidental statement said its process involves heating shale underground to extract oil, thus avoiding the ecological problems created by processes which operate above ground, leaving 95 per cent of it there as residual waste.

Occidental added that its process could be used to extract crude oil from high-grade shale deposits such as those in Colorado at a price of $1.18 per barrel "before amortization of investment," or about 67 cents per barrel cheaper than other processes.

Crude oil cost per barrel, using competing techniques, is estimated at $1.85, whereas the world price for crude oil per barrel currently ranges from $10.80 in Indonesia to $15 in the Middle East.

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and Gulf Oil Co. last week made a joint bid of $210.3 million for the right to develop oil shale deposits in northwestern Colorado.

Below-The-Waist Blocking Halted

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) —

In an effort to reduce college football injuries, the National Collegiate Athletic Association has outlawed downfield blocking below the waist on kickoff and punt returns next spring.

The NCAA Rules Committee adopted the blocking rule and several others during a meeting here Wednesday.

"We have found that 50 per cent of the injuries received on kicking plays are knee injuries, and occur during downfield blocking," said John Waldorf, Rules Committee chairman.

Another rules change calls for penalties on running plays for penalties on running plays to be enforced from when the ball carrier is halted, except when the infraction is committed by the offensive team behind the ball. Those will be stepped off from the point of infraction.

A key change provides that all infractions carry penalties, which the committee said was designed to lessen what it called "cheap shots" during the game.

Other major changes include: —Substitution. A player must remain in the game for one play, while anyone taken out of the contest must remain out for one play. During the past season players could run into the game only long enough to deliver a play message and then leave.

—Kickoff receivers. Players receiving kickoffs can shade their eyes against the sun, an action prohibited in the past.

—Field goals. A ball must pass between the two uprights for a field goal. Previously a ball could pass over one upright.

—Hearing aids. Players with hearing disabilities may wear them.

Medic Coaching Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The coach showed up on the floor an hour after practice was scheduled to start, put aside a black medicine bag and quietly ordered the Chicago Bulls to begin loosening up exercises.

It was Dr. Robert Biel's baptism to coaching in the National Basketball Association and he received a lot of ribbing Wednesday from the Bulls' players as they began shooting lay-ups at the start of the workout.

Biel, the Bulls' trainer, was appointed acting coach after Dick Motta was ordered suspended for a week and fined $2,000 for an outburst at an NBA official Jan. 4, following Chicago's 103-101 loss at Seattle.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said the suspension was the first of a coach in the league's 28-year history.

Biel, a podiatrist, supervised the practice after Motta decided to stay overnight in Seattle following the NBA's AllStar game Tuesday night.

"It's a hell of a compliment," said Biel as he taped center Cliff Ray's knee before the workout at DePaul University's gym. "But right now things are kind of confused. We should've been on the floor nearly an hour ago and I'm still taping the players."

Even in the American Basketball Association, home of the three-point goal from long fieldgoal range, no one can score from the bench.

And, according to Mack Calvin, it's hard to score after being on the bench.

"I can contribute more by starting," said Calvin after helping his Carolina Cougar teammates demolish the New York Nets 131-105 Wednesday night. "Ted McClain and myself are able to press and do more on defense than if we began the game on the bench."

Daniels, the 6-foot-9 center who was the Most Valuable Player in the game in 1971, collected 35 first team votes and 79 points to earn his appearance in a seventh ABA classic.

Joining Daniels and McGinnis in the starting lineup are Utah Stars forward Willis Wise and guard Jimmy Jones. Wise, making the team for the third straight year had 59 first place votes and 124 points, and Jones, who came off the bench last year to lead the a comeback victory for the West, with 40 first place votes and 99 total.

Denver's Warren Jabali, the MVP in last year's game at Utah, edged teammate F Simpson at the other starting guard spot with 75 total points.

WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. (AP) — "Hot dog," cried Jack Sanders as he took off down the mountain, dancing first on one ski, then the other, turning, jumping, laughing, falling and rolling in the snow like a 3-year-old.

All the slope was a stage. The falling snow seemed to part like a curtain as this frolicking figure in a royal blue snowsuit did one fancy stunt after another.

Sanders, a 38-year-old lawyer from Hampton, N.H., was the star, a student of a new form of skiing that is captivating imaginations of young bombers and older, established types alike.

From the sun-drenched slopes of California's Squaw Valley to the woodland trails winding down the rugged mountains of New England, acrobatics are "in," the biggest thing for skiing since buckle boots.

Some call it "freestyle." To others, it's "hot-dogging." And its disciples are a new breed of skiers, the loose and lively free spirits of the mountains, grooving on everything they were always taught not to do.

"It really blows my mind. I have a helluva time," said Sanders, who was a downhill racer in college. "One weekend of this relaxes me as much as a whole week of skiing used to... It makes skiing a whole new sport."

For years, the ultimate for most skiers was conquering the parallel, whipping down a mountain slope with knees and skis together, leaving a ribbonlike trail behind, kicking up clouds of snow at anyone who got in the way.

Today, however, skiers who have mastered the art of flying down an expert trail with their skis together are getting their kicks by learning to cross one ski over the other, doing splits in the snow, turning in full circles and bounding from one snowbank to another, often collapsing on the backs of their skis in what at first glance looks like a backbreaking fall.

For freestyle skiing is a combination of figure skating, ballet, gymnastics, aerial jumping — and imagination. Rubber bones would help. It's style, not speed that counts. And the maneuvers, with names like Daffy, Ottriger, Helicopter and Space Walk are instant crowdpleasers.

"Everyone has his own style," said Wayne Wong, a 23-year-old Vancouver, B.C., native of Chinese descent whose stormcloud antics and daring flips have made him America's No. 1 hot-dog hero.

"There are no limits," he said with a puckish grin between freestyle performances at the Washington ski show. "My maximum energy flows in aerial. We don't know what the limits are. The further we go, the more we see can be done."

"It's a revolution in the ski industry," said "Airborne Eddie" Ferguson, 26, who runs freestyle skiing camps at Crystal Mountain in Washington State and at Vail, Colo. "You don't need the perfect technique to have fun."

Many Veterans Confused Over Viet Bonus Eligibility

Myrl H. Shoemaker (D), chairman of the finance committee of the Ohio House of Representatives, said today the Vietnam Veterans' Bonus had caused confusion among many who might be entitled to benefits.

In order to insure that all who are qualified may become better informed, Representative Shoemaker was provided information about how the bonus will work.

All Ohioans who served in the Armed Forces between August 5, 1964, and July 1, 1973, whether or not they served in Vietnam, are entitled to benefits. Any Ohioan who served in Vietnam or drew combat pay in any part of Southeast Asia between February 28, 1961, and July 1, 1973, is also eligible. To qualify under either rule, the person must have been an Ohio resident for at least one year immediately before he entered military service.

If the veteran was serving in the U.S., he will receive $10 for each month of active duty. If serving in a foreign country, he gets $15 per month. If in Vietnam or if he received combat pay in any part of Southeast Asia, he will get $20 for each month he served there. The most that any veteran can receive is $500, unless he was a prisoner of war or was missing in action, in which case he is entitled to $1000. If discharged due to combat injuries he automatically gets the $500 maximum. Veterans are not the only ones entitled to receive the benefits.

If an eligible veteran has passed away, his surviving spouse, his children, or his parents may claim his benefits. If he died from injuries received in Vietnam service or if he was a prisoner of war or missing in action, his survivors or relatives will get $1000.

There will be a method by which a veteran (but not survivors) will be able to double the amount of his benefits. The General Assembly is required by the bonus amendment to provide an optional educational assistance bonus for veterans. When this legislation is passed within the next several months, any person who qualifies for the cash bonus will be able to receive twice that amount to enable him to attend any school which the state legislature has listed as an approved school. Because this plan requires the passing of an act by the legislature, it probably will take more time to implement than the cash bonus plan which it is expected will go into effect in the next few months.

Any further questions on the bonus can be answered by writing to Joseph T. Ferguson, Auditor of State, State House, Columbus, Ohio 43215, ATTENTION: Vietnam Bonus. Telephone questions can be answered by calling (614) 466-4858 or (614) 466-2813.

GTE Schools Employees

General Telephone Co. of Ohio has announced the training of three Circleville area employees at its Technical Training School located in Marion.

Karl K. Stalter, Route 2, Laurelville, a switchman, has received a certificate for completing a special two-week course covering the theory of electrical transmission of the human voice and the use of test equipment to insure quality of this transmission.

A graduate of Thurston High School, Stalter has been with the company eight years. He previously completed seven other specialized courses in the company's training program.

Teddy L. Barbee, 111 Evergreen Ave., an installer repairman, has received a certificate for completing a special course covering paystation installation and maintenance. Mechanics of the single-slot paystation are included in this course.

A graduate of Laurelville High School, Barbee has been with the company three and one-half years. He previously completed three other specialized courses in the company's training program.

Clyde P. Preast, 1069 Georgia Road, a cable splicer, has completed a course covering methods, techniques and test equipment used for quickly detecting cable trouble. Special equipment installed at the school is used to train the men on the job.

A graduate of Circleville High School, Preast has been with the company two and one-half years. He previously completed four other specialized courses in the company's training program.

Medic Licensing Relaxation Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If Ohio wants to alleviate its doctor shortage, it could make it easier for U.S. citizens who graduate from foreign medical schools to be licensed in the state, a legislative committee was told Wednesday night.

Rep. Arthur R. Bowers, D-98 Steubenville, brought witnesses before the House State Government Committee supporting his enabling measure. They included a New Concord, Ohio, native now in his third year at the autonomous University of Guadalajara, Mexico.

The same committee earlier Wednesday night recommended passage of a measure by Rep. C. J. McLin Jr. D-36 Dayton, giving legal status to a medical school at Wright State University at Dayton.

McLin's bill has the effect of reconfirming demands of Dayton area legislators in the wake of a growing dispute with administration spokesmen who have taken a stand against the Wright State facility.

The dispute also involves a proposal in a governor's task force report to withhold action on a second new medical school in northeast Ohio.

Bowers' bill would require that the State Medical Board allow a graduate of a foreign school who is a U.S. citizen to take an examination to practice in Ohio if he has completed one year of academic training at a U.S. hospital, and if he has completed one year of internship in this country, he explained.

Steve Taylor of New Concord told the committee he represents the 1,900 member National Student Association at Guadalajara, including 106 Ohioans who are in medical school at the Mexican University.

He cited statistics of the American Medical Association that showed the U.S. needs to graduate 22,000 doctors in the 1970s, but said only "half that amount" is being turned out.

In Ohio alone in the last 10 years, he said 45 communities in his home state have lost their physicians and have not been able to replace them. He also said 53 per cent of the interns in Ohio hospitals are graduates of foreign schools.

"We feel the foreign medical school graduate in this country has filled a void and prevented a disaster," Taylor told the committee.

Bowers' bill was held over for further consideration.

Sertoma Opens Nominations For Award

The Sertoma Club is looking for the person to be presented the annual Service to Mankind Award.

The person should be one who has given unselfishly of his or her time, talent and dedication to help others, without receiving recognition or fame for himself.

Persons knowing of such a suitable candidate should contact Bill Crouch, 476 E. Franklin St.

The person nominating should give a description of the nominee's activities. After the committee has announced it's selection for the award, the recipient will be honored at the annual awards' banquet.

For the purpose of the Circleville Sertoma Club award, the candidates must be associated actively in our community or nearby vicinity.

Family Spat Brings Death To Officers

DETROIT (AP) — Two young policemen have been shot to death and two others wounded after answering "the most difficult type of call," a family fight involving a gun.

Killed Wednesday were Leonard Todd, 32, an 11-year police veteran just promoted to sergeant, and Patrolman Edward Pakula, 27, an ex-Marine with four years on the force. Each was married and the father of one child.

A 15-year-old boy also was grazed by a bullet in a hail of gunfire which cut down the four officers, police said. The youth, whom police declined to identify, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Authorities also would not identify the man who fired from the house. They said he was not hurt.

Police Commissioner Philip Tannian said officers were dispatched to a quiet, middle-income neighborhood in Northeast Detroit after a woman made two calls to police.

They said that in the first call she asked for help in a family quarrel and in the second reported that "someone was shooting up the house."

He said the responding officers stepped into a barrage of gunfire when they arrived at the home.

Bancorporation Declares Dividend

Theodore R. Saker, chairman of the board and president of American Bancorporation, recently announced that the board of directors of the multi-bank holding company declared a 5 per cent stock dividend to shareholders of record as of February 1, 1974.

The board declared the stock dividend in recognition of profitable operations during 1973, according to Saker.

A total of 10 per cent stock dividends were declared by the company in 1973. Shareholders of record as of August 10, 1973, were paid a 5 per cent stock dividend during third quarter 1973.

American Bancorporation has six affiliate banks throughout Ohio.

Current affiliates of the company include: The Ross County National Bank, Ross county; The Harpster Bank, Wyandot county; The Huntsville State Bank, Logan county; The Dime Bank, Marietta, Washington county; The Farmers State Bank of McClure, Henry county; The Continental Bank, Putnam county.

Two new banking offices of American Bancorporation affiliates were opened in 1973. The Ross County National Bank opened an office in Kingston, and The Huntsville State Bank started operations of a Bellefontaine office.

Two more affiliate offices are scheduled to open in the first quarter of 1974. These include a drive-in facility for The Dime Bank, Marietta, and the Ridgeville Corners office of The Farmers State Bank of McClure.

In addition to its six banking affiliates, American Bancorporation is the parent company of three non-banking subsidiaries: Bankbuildings, Inc., American Bancservices, Inc., and American Mortgages, Inc.

Red Missile Over-Rated?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technical analysis indicates that a Soviet-made antiaircraft missile fired by the Arabs in the recent Mideast war was over-rated, Pentagon sources report.

The SA7 was found to be too slow to knock down U.S. jets flown at high speed by Israeli pilots and its warhead was not powerful enough to destroy more than a few of the jets it did hit, sources said.

According to reports being studied here, only two of 28 U.S. built Israeli Skyhawks struck by SA7 missiles crashed while the other 26 landed safely, U.S. military sources said. Neither of the downed planes was traveling faster than about 450 miles per hour when struck.

The Israeli Air Force lost heavily in the first four days of the October war and considerable credit for those killed was given to Soviet-provided antiaircraft missiles.

One of those missiles was the SA7, a heat-seeking weapon that was mounted in groupings of four to eight on tracked vehicles. The SA7 was encountered first in South Vietnam where it was effective against helicopters when shoulder-fired by North Vietnamese infantry men.

The Israelis captured some SA7s and other types of Soviet supplied antiaircraft missiles. Israeli and U.S. technicians have been studying their performance ever since the October war.

Among the weapons under study is the new SA6, a high speed antiaircraft missile designed to counter low-level attack planes. The SA6 was encountered for the first time in the recent Mideast war. This missile too was credited at first with many Israeli kills but it was determined later that the SA6 caused most damage by forcing Israeli pilots into evasive maneuvers that brought their planes into the muzzles of antiaircraft guns.

Meanwhile, other studies of Israeli tanks knocked out in the October battles indicate that Russian antitank ammunition is highly destructive, perhaps more so than American experts had believed it to be.
